SAYS TAFT SUGGESTED CHARGES BE SUPPRESSED

Gen. Whipple Declares President Wanted to Protect Accused Army Officer Who Worked for Him.

Washington, Feb. 10.—Brig.-Gen. C. H. Whipple, retiring paymaster general of the army, today told the house committee on expenditures in the war department that charges of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman against Maj. Beecher B. Ray, of the army pay corps, had been suppressed at the suggestion of President Taft. Ray, it is charged, took an active part in the Taft campaign of 1908 and his political activity has been under investigation by the congressional committee.

Taft campaign headquarters will be opened here on Monday or Tuesday and will be known as the National Taft bureau. Representative Wm. B. McKinley, of Illinois, chairman of the republican congressional committee and recently selected as pre-convention manager of the Taft campaign, made the announcement today after a conference with Secretary Hilles. The headquarters will be in a downtown hotel.

Ray a "Walking Delegate."

It has been charged that Major Ray acted as a "walking delegate" for the republican party.

Gen. Whipple said that twice Major Ray had escaped trial on charges which he, the general, believed warranted prosecution. He said he went to Beverly in 1910 to see the president and that Mr. Taft had dictated a letter in his presence advising that for the honor of the army and the good name of a woman, stories of the major's acquaintance with the wife of an employe of the pay department be kept from the records.

This letter and two others by President Taft were put in the record to show the political connections of Major Ray. The paymaster was appointed to the army after serving in the campaign of 1896 under Mark Hanna in rounding up the railway trainmen's vote. He is said to have done similar work in the campaign of 1908 for President Taft. In one of his letters President Taft said Major Ray had been active in the campaign at the instance of his (the president's) brother and added that he found Major Ray had "presumed" on the value of the service rendered.

Gen. Whipple stated that Major Ray recently was transferred from Atlanta to Chicago. No reason for the transfer was given him, Gen. Whipple said, and there was no stress of public business warranting it. Gen. Whipple's testimony indicated that he gave credence to the army rumor that Major Ray has a "political pull."

STEPS ASIDE FOR CLARK.

Action of Mr. Folk Means His Withdrawal From Race.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 10.—Former Governor Jos. W. Folk today announced his retirement from the race for indorsement in Missouri for the presidential nomination at the hands of the democrats. He thus agreed to a proposal made by Speaker Champ Clerk, who wanted Mr. Folk to agree to a divided delegation. Mr. Folk did this and at the same time released all of his friends from giving him their support.

Gives All to Clark.

Gov. Folk made the following announcement after considering a statement which he had received from Speaker Clark:

"I have read Mr. Clark's statement with pleasure, and sincerely appreciate the spirit manifested therein. I heartily concur in the sentiments that personal ambition should be subordinated to the interest of our party in Missouri and now that Mr. Clark has expressed a willingness to have the delegation divided between him and myself, as suggested recently by Mr. Bryan, I shall now request my friends to make no further effort in mybehalf.

"I believe from reports received from other states that Mr. Clark, owing to his prominence in Washington at this time

INDIANA MAN IS NOW ON THE LIST

Judge Francis E. Baker is Among High Court Possibilities.

QUAKER IS ANOTHER

Washington, Feb. 10.—A new turn in the contest for the vacancy on the United States supreme bench caused by the death of Justice Harlan brought the name of Judge Francis E. Baker, of Indiana, prominently to the front again today. From inside sources it is now learned that the president proposes that the appointment shall go either to Indiana or to Pennsylvania. Secretary Nagel's friends, however, still believe he will be selected.

The two leading contestants, as the situation stands, are Judge Baker, of Indiana, and Judge Joseph Buffington, of Pittsburg. Judge Buffington is a United States circuit judge for the third judicial circuit.

Senator Oliver, of Pennsylvania, is making a determined effort to land Judge Buffington on the supreme court, but Senator Penrose, of the same state, is not so kindly disposed toward the Pittsburg jurist. Senator Penrose's choice is Senator John P. Elkin, of Pennsylvania, but he probably would put no obstacles in the way of Judge Buffington if the president should see fit to name the latter.

Crumpacker is Busy.

FIND FUGITIVE IN A HOSPITAL

Otis Hurley, Ohio "Prison Demon," is Recaptured and Returned.

WOUNDED IN FLIGHT

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 10.—Otis Hurley, the so-called "prison demon," who escaped from the Ohio penitentiary last night, was found today at a hospital in this city and returned to the penitentiary. He was shot through the left foot in his break for liberty and was suffering much from exposure. Wm. Brennan, another prisoner, who attempted to escape with Hurley, was captured last night by guards after he had been shot twice.

After escaping from the prison last night, Hurley sought refuge in the railroad yards, but the cold becoming intense, went to a saloon where he confided to Michael Herbst, a stranger, that he had been shot by a fellow employe. Herbst had him sent to St. Francis hospital. Today Herbst saw Hurley's picture in a local newspaper and recognized it as that of the man he had sent to the hospital. He notified the prison authorities, who had Hurley removed to the prison hospital.

CENTRAL FIGURES IN SHOOTING AFFRAY ON DOUGLAS AVENUE.

RALPH D. FELLABAUM.

MRS. CLARICE SCHWARTZ.

WOMAN MAY LIVE; FELLABAUM HELD

Awaiting Outcome of Injuries to Mrs. Clarice Schwartz, Whom He Shot on Douglas Avenue.

Ralph Fellabaum, who shot and wounded Mrs. Clarice Schwartz on Douglas avenue just west of Calhoun street about 7 o'clock Friday night, was formally arraigned in the city court today on the charge of assault and battery with intent to kill and sent to jail under a bond of $5,000.

He did not enter a plea and the case was continued until next Wednesday to see what the result of the injury inflicted on the woman will be.

"How are you feeling this morning?" the prisoner was asked as he paced his cell early today.

"Pretty doggoned tough," was the reply as he took a drink from a ti ncup full of water.

"What did you do this for?" he was asked.

"Now, just wait till I get this booze out of me and I will tell you all about it." Later in the day he declined to talk on the ground that he might injure his case.

Dr. M. W. Tinkham, who attended the woman last night, stated that she sustained only one wound liable to give her any trouble and that the developments of the night indicated that it is not fatal.

The ball entered the left breast and was found just over the kidneys and as there was no hemorrhage the physician felt pretty sure the ball had not penetrated the lung.

Shot Through His Hat.

Following his attempt to kill the woman Fellabaum shot twice at himself, but his aim was bad and the bullets went through his hat. He and the woman were carried to the Christen Bros. drug store and both were removed to St. Joseph's hospital, where he pretended to be badly injured.

An examination by Dr. Tinkham indicated that he was shamming and he was hustled to headquarters, where he was questioned about the shooting. There he denied that he had fired a shot and told the officers that he had been held up and shot at. The weapon with which he did the shooting was later found and it is a revolver of 32-calibre.

Drink and Jealousy Causes.

While Fellabaum insisted that he is married to the woman and the ceremony was performed at some point in Canada on June 7 of last year, she denies it and says that her husband is John Schwartz, of Findlay.

Since August of last year the couple had lived at the home of Mrs. John Stuart, 432 East Berry street, and were known as man and wife. He was employed as a tinner by B. S. Vail & Co. and she worked in the Boss glove factory at Superior and Calhoun streets.

Last night he met her as she left the factory and after they had had supper he went with her toward the rooming house at 117 Brackenridge street, where she had engaged a room after leaving him, and telling him in a note that she was tired of his drunken abuse and could not live with him any longer.

Asked Her to Return.

According to her statement as they approached a point on Douglas avenue opposite the first alley west of Calhoun street he asked for a parting kiss and she gave it to him.

As he released her from his embrace he drew a revolver and fired and then turned the weapon on himself and fired again at her and the ball grazed one of her legs, inflicting only a slight bruise.

The couple had parted on Thursday and yesterday Fellebaum went to the Vail establishment on Barr street and asked for his wages. He said his wife had left him on Thursday. He was generally regarded as a steady workman and the firm had a lot of confidence in him.

He said yesterday at the Stuart room-

Archduchess Isabella Marie before the ceremony renounced all her rights to the succession of the thrones of Austria and Hungary, an act which is imposed on all princesses of the Austrian imperial family when they marry outside the reigning family.

WAS A FORMER FINANCIAL KING

Ernest Terah Hooley, the "Splendid Bankrupt," Goes to Prison.

CUT A WIDE SWATH

London, Feb. 10.—Ernest Terah Holley, who was one of the leading men in the financial world of London a few years ago was sentenced today at the Old Bailey to a year's imprisonment on a charge of obtaining money by fraudulently representing some property he had sold to the prosecutor as free of encumbrances.

Holley was one of the most prominent financiers in England from 1890 to 1898, when he was declared bankrupt. He had been regarded as one of the wealthiest men in the country, acquiring his riches by the promotion of numerous companies. In 1896 he launched a tire company and is supposed to have made a profit of $12,500,000. He owned a large number of race horses and yachts, including the racing cutter Britania, formerly the property of King Edward, and he also possessed several historic country seats. After his bankruptcy he was known as the "splendid bankrupt," as he continued to live in princely style on money which had been placed in his wife's name.

It was predicted by the weather department that considerably warmer weather would come and that by Sunday morning the thermometer would record from 10 to 15 degrees above zero.

She also emptied the contents of dishes on his clothing, he avers.

BOARD HAS A NEW OFFER TO SUBMIT

City Wants Elevation West of Calhoun Street Cleared Up and Makes Proposition.

With a view of clearing up track elevation west of Calhoun street, and at the same time retaining all its rights east of that thoroughfare, the city of Fort Wayne, through its board of public works, has made a new proposition to the Pennsylvania company.

Features in the new proposition are that the city will grant the trackage rights asked for the new station, that the building be started not later than April 1, of this year, that no building will be constructed across Clinton street before 1915, that plans be made for an opening at Walton avenue and a right of way across the tracks at College street.

The proposition was made in a communication to Superintendent W. M. Warddop today and was sent because the officials in Pittsburg are getting a little bit impatient at the delay. The communication sets out the position of the city very clearly and is as follows:

W. M. Wardrop, Supt. Pennsylvania Company, City. Dear Sir: Recently there was filed with the city by the citizens' committee, certain recommendations or findings relative to the elevation of the tracks of your company. Now, for the purpose of having the work finished west of Calhoun street during the coming year, the city desires to submit for your consideration the following proposition:

First. In accordance with the recommendations or findings of the aforesaid committee and the request of your company on file in this office, the city will grant your company the additional track rights, requested at

TWO FIXED PRICE FOR 400 MEMBERS

New York Butter and Egg Men Have Fine Little Organization.

WARRANTS FOR ALL

New York, Feb. 10.—"John Doe" proceedings that have been instituted by Assistant District Attorney Ford to ascertain whether the New York Mercantile Exchange, an organization of butter and egg men, controls prices and is a conspiracy in restraint of trade are expected by the public prosecutor to show that two members of the exchange arbitrarily fixed prices for the 400 members of the organization.

The prosecutor said today that these two men each day visited several places of business of certain members of the exchange, made "real or pretended" inquiries as to the state of the egg and butter market. After this inquiry a list of prices was posted on the exchange. The prosecutor says that the exchange by this method has crushed out competition and that by the arrangements the members are able to buy eggs and butter at the lowest possible prices in the "flush" season and store them and to sell them in the winter months at the highest possible prices. Warrants for the 400 members of the exchange have been asked for by Mr. Ford.

DIES IN EFFORT TO RESCUE WIFE

WOMAN IS CREMATED

Seymour, Ind., Feb 10.—While vainly trying to rescue his bedfast wife from their burning home, Charles King, 70, a civil war veteran, died suddenly early today. Neighbors, attracted by the flames, found King's body on the kitchen floor near a pail half full of water, with which he evidently sought to put out the fire. Heart trouble, induced by the excitement, it is said, caused his death.

Mrs. King was confined to her bed with a broken leg and her body, badly charred, was not recovered until the house was almost destroyed. The couple lived alone.

CLUB WOMEN TAKE ACTION.

Want Investigation of the Death of Dr. Helene Knabe.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 10.—The local council of women today employed a detective agency to investigate the death of Dr. Helene Knabe, whose body, with the throat cut, was found in her apartments last October. According to Dr. Amelia Keller, president of the council and close friend of Dr. Knabe, all clews are to be followed, "no matter where they may lead."

Since Coroner Durham filed his report declaring the woman's death a case of murder the investigation has been at a standstill. The police declared that suicide was more plausible than a murder theory.

SWINNEY REPEATS HIS WEIRD TALE

Declares He Slew Man Who Killed Real Kimmel in Oregon.

HE'S STAR WITNESS

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 10.—John E. Swinney, a New Mexico ranchman, testified in the Kimmel mystery case in the United States district court today that he killed the man who killed George A. Kimmel in a forest in Oregon August 14, 1898, two weeks after Kimmel disappeared.

Swinney was allowed to tell his story to the jury with but slight interruption from attorneys for the insurance company, which holds policies amounting to $30,000 on Kimmel's life. The defense plans to put on witnesses who it is contended will discredit Swinney's testimony.

The witness is an acknowledged ex-convict, having served sentences for murder and train robbery. Kimmel, in company with the late Robert M. Snyder, of Kansas City, a man named Johnson and Swinney, according to Swinney's testimony, left Kansas City the night of Kimmel's disappearance for Coos Bay, Oregon, to search for a buried treasure of $40,000 in gold. The party went through Denver and San Francisco and took a sailing vessel from San Francisco to Coos Bay. After finding $4,000 of the treasure, according to Swinney, Johnson and Kimmel quarreled in the woods, Johnson shooting Kimmel. Swinney in turn shot Johnson and Swinney and Snyder buried the two bodies in the same grave, covered it with leaves and fled.

Swinney testified that Snyder took Kimmel's effects and intended to send them to his mother, but was afraid to do so. The claimant, Andrew White, former convict, was not in court to hear Swinney's story.

Swinney arrived in St. Louis the first day of the trial and has been in court every day. It was expected that he would remain on the stand throughout the day.

INDIANA SUITS HIM BEST.

Henry Schepplemann, of Woodburn, a retired farmer, says that Indiana, and particularly that part of it in which Allen county is located, is good enough for him. Five or six weeks ago Mr. and Mrs. Schepplemann left for a trip through the south and particularly Texas, and they returned home this morning. Mr. Schepplemann says that Texas has just passed through the worst period of cold and storm in its history and stock on the ranches and farms suffered greatly. In making a trip by rail from one point to another he counted fifty carcasses of cattle that had died from exposure. One stock raiser lost sixteen out of eighty head of cattle and expects to lose others. The weather ordinarily is not cold in Texas and the stock raisers never considered it necessary to provide much shelter for their stock.

HORSES LIKE ST. JOE.

Livery horses have a yearning for St. Joe and Sheriff Reichelderfer is ready to prove it.

Wednesday night William Horstman, local liveryman, hired a horse and sleight to a young man named Huber. The young man tied the horse while he went in to get his girl and the animal broke loose and ran away.

Thursday night a horse belonging to Liveryman Coyle, of LaOtto, broke loose from its moorings and disappeared. Both cases were reported to the sheriff, who got his horse hunting machinery in motion.

Today a telephone message from St. Joe, Ind., conveyed the information that the Horstman horse was there with part of the sleight still hanging to him.

A few minutes later he got another message saying the Coyle horse was there, too, and he sent for both of them. The Fort Wayne horse had traveled about thirty-five miles and the other had gone ten or fifteen miles more.

LEIKAUF FINED $200 AND COSTS

Appeal But Have State Case and It Will Be Prosecuted.

ROBBISON IS FINED

In the city court today the Leikauf Packing company was assessed $200 and costs for selling the head of a diseased hog to Daniel Schmid, of 421 Putnam street.

Following the usual method the case was appealed to the circuit court where the concern now has half a dozen or more resting, but this offense is, in the opinion of the prosecutor's deputies so flagrant that it will be pushed to trial.

The meat is said to have been so infected that it made the purchaser sick and would probably have killed him if he had eaten more than the small quantity he consumed. An effort was made to prove that the head was one taken from a consignment of hogs sold by Frederick Yahne, of Aboite township, but Mr. Yahne testified that all of the hogs he sold were sound and that none had the marks of disease like the one shown in court.

There were big ulcerations and puss cells on the head as was evidenced by the marks discovered by Dr. George Gillie, and these were plainly visible but were not seen by Mr. Schmid because his sight is impaired.

"We have been right after this firm for several years but they have us all tied up with injunctions and we are powerless to even make the owners clean up their premises," said Dr. Crull, of the health department today, "and it is our intention to have the state push this prosecution. Judge Mungovan is helping us out and if we can just get a little more assistance we can make this company get in line with the other packing concerns."

Robbinson is Fined.

James L. Robbinson, charged with cutting Thomas Reynolds in a fight in Halberstadt's saloon three weeks ago, was fined $5 and costs and given sixty days in jail.

He endeavored to prove that he had his knife in his hand picking his teeth with it when he was assaulted by Reynolds and that he only defended himself.

Middleton Got a Term.

Joe Middleton promised when he was in court on Dec. 6 that he would support his children and keep away from Mrs. Milton Koontz, on whom he was spending his earnings while his sisters were caring for his little ones.

Since the dressing down the judge gave him at the time he had subscribed $3 to the little family and kept visiting Mrs. Koontz right along. She was called to the police station this morning and given a talking to that she will probably remember as Chief Abbott told her plainly that she must keep in the straight and narrow.

At the time Middleton was in court the judge gave him a suspended sentence of ninety days and he will have this to serve along with fifteen days to pay the costs in his case.

The Other Cases.

Theodore Bates, head of the dead animal industry in Fort Wayne, was up for allowing a carcass to be placed on a lot where it was offensive but he was acquitted.

Jack Shepperd, Frank Fox, Henry Maxwell and Jeff Myers, plain drunks, were allowed to go with warnings.

sentative Crumpacker, who is a close friend of Judge Baker, sought an early opportunity for an interview with the President in Judge Baker's behalf. This probably will take place tomorrow, and in any event not later than Monday.

The president has been reading the record of Judge Baker's decisions and is highly pleased both with his interpretation of the law and the scholarly, forcible language in which his decisions are couched. While politics is not a governing factor in selecting supreme court material it must be taken into account, and it is thought that from every standpoint Judge Baker's appointment would prove desirable politically.

The president has changed his mind so often in regard to this appointment that predictions are unsafe. Secretary Nagel was tipped as a sure winner a few days ago, but opposition to his confirmation has developed among the senate insurgents.

MEETING OF FRUIT GROWERS.

Organization of County Horticultural Society Will Be Perfected.

With Frederick Kell as chairman and Ora F. Richards, as secretary, a largely attended meeting was held this afternoon in the assembly room of the court house for the purpose of organizing a county horticultural society. Professor Woodbury, of the Purdue university, was present and delivered an interesting address, after which it was determined to organize the society. On motion a committee of five was appointed to draft a constitution and by-laws. This committee will report at a meeting to be held in this city next Saturday. Following the appointment of other committees addresses were made by prominent fruit growers of the county.

TWO DEAD FROM GAS.

Hammond, Ind., Feb. 10.—Patrons of a general store operated by Marie Selimer and Margaret Mills, at Robertsdale, broke in the door today when they found it locked and discovered the two young women dead from asphyxiation. They went to the store last night to decorate it for a party to be given this evening and were overcome by gas from a broken pipe.

HURLS HIMSELF TO DEATH.

Pittsburg, Feb. 10.—Stanley Kelfhofer, aged 33, a twenty day prisoner at the county jail here, hurled himself from the fourth tier of cells to the flagstones of the rotunda, sixty feet below, today in a successful attempt at suicide. Two weeks ago he tried to take poison at an eye and ear infirmary.

application of the trans-continental railroads for an injunction to restrain the inter-state commerce commission from putting into effect its order fixing a rate of $1 a hundred pounds on California lemons destined to points in the east.

The original order of the commission establishing a rate of $1 a hundred pounds on California lemons, when destined to Atlantic seaboard territory, was appealed to the commerce court, which remanded the case for hearing on the ground that Sicilian lemon competition had been given too great weight by the commission. After rehearing the case, the commission in an elaborate opinion reaffirmed its findings and again ordered that the lemon rate should be $1 a hundred pounds. Application was made for an injunction against this order on the ground that it was confiscatory. The commerce court denied the application.

Confirms O. K. on Stephenson.

By a vote of 8 to 5 the senate committee on privileges and elections today approved the report of the sub-committee exhonerating Senator Stephenson from charges of corruption in connection with his election.

Senators Clapp, Jones, Kenyon, Kern and Lee voted in negative and will present a minority report to the senate. They took the position that the expenditure of $107,000 in the senatorial primary raised a presumption of wrong doing on the part of Senator Stephenson and that they failed to find in the evidence that such a presumption had been removed. Senators Dillingham, Gamble, Heyburn, Sutherland, Johnston, Fletcher, Bradley and Pomerene voted in favor of Senator Stephenson. Senators Oliver and Paynter were not present.

Steam Roads Win Victory.

A temporary injunction was granted today by the commerce court restraining the interstate commerce commission from enforcing its order directing the Baltimore and Ohio and Norfolk and Western railroad to permit switching connections between their lines and those of the Cincinnati and Columbus Traction company in Ohio.

The traction company demanded switching connections with the steam roads at two points in Ohio, and the privilege of establishing through routes and joint rates to and from all points with the Baltimore and Ohio and the Norfolk and Western. The steam roads contended that it would be dangerous to life and property to handle on the electric lines their heavy equipment and that the traction line, under any proper construction of the law, was not entitled to switching connection with them or the privilege of making their rail routes and joint rates.

The court upholds these contentions.

INVALID BURNED TO DEATH.

Son Arrives to See Father's Charred Body Drop to Floor.

Dayton, Ohio, Feb. 10.—Helpless from paralysis, John Dunlavy was literally roasted alive while seated in his invalid chair yesterday when sparks from his pipe dropped on his clothes, setting them on fire. Dunlavy had been left alone by his wife while she attended to her household duties. His son, coming home, beheld his father burning alive when he looked through a window. He broke down a locked door and entered the room just as the charred body of his father fell to the floor.

Nine Hundred Persons at United, Pa., Undergo Ordeal.

Greensburg, Pa., Feb. 10.—Nine hundred persons, the entire population of United, a mining settlement near here, have been vaccinated and today are nursing sore arms. While the mines are operating the miners are able to do little work. The wholesale vaccination was ordered by the state health authorities because of the discovery of smallpox and the quarantining of twenty-six persons who had been exposed to the contagion. One death has thus far been reported.

MAKES A BITTER ATTACK ON BRYAN

Calls Him "Evil Genius Hovering on Flanks of Democracy."

TEXAS MAN'S IRE UP

Washington, Feb. 10.—Wm. J. Bryan was held up to the house as the "evil genius hovering on the flanks of democracy" by Representative Martin E. Dies, of Texas, who spoke in reply to the Commoner's latest attack upon the democratic membership of the house.

Democrats and republicans alike cheered Mr. Dies' declaration that he "never feared the power nor respected the judgment" of the Nebraskan; and his further announcement that democracy under the leadership of Champ Clark and Oscar W. Underwood was headed toward complete success swept the democratic side of the house into a storm of applause.

Ready to Join Wilson.

"I am almost ready to join Governor Wilson in his desire to find some decent and orderly manner of knocking Mr. Bryan into a cocked hat," said Mr. Dies, amid democratic laughter and applause.

Mr. Dies' attack upon Mr. Bryan followed the latter's declaration in the last issue of the Commoner that the thirteen democrats who voted against a recent amendment in the house to require publicity of all recommendations to the president on judgeship appointments were "unworthy to represent a democratic constituency."

Mr. Dies declared that if Mr. Bryan had spent as much time reading law as he had attacking democrats in public life he would have known that the proposed law would be "unconstitutional and an infringement of the president's rights."

Recalls Some History.

"Mr. Bryan has led the democrats through three disastrous defeats," cried Mr. Dies. "Like the bourbons of old he has learned nothing and forgotten nothing. He points over column straight to the rocks of St. Helena.

"The people are ready to give us more power. In this situation it is a calamity if not a crime for Mr. Bryan to sow seeds of discord in the ranks of the party.

"Whatever we do here displeases him. The prospect of democratic success seems to anger his very soul. I prefer to follow the leadership of the gentleman from Alabama. I have followed the Don Quixote, of Nebraska, until I am wearying of a war upon windmills. I demand to be led against the flesh and blood enemies of democracy."

The conclusion of Representative Dies' remarkable attack on Mr. Bryan was marked by general applause and the clustering about him of democratic colleagues who shook his hands.

Indianapolis, Feb. 10.—The work of arresting and having bonded for arraignment on March 2 the forty or more men indicted for alleged complicity in the dynamite conspiracy now rests with the federal officers in the districts where the defendants reside or are sojourning.

It was learned today that all the necessary papers for the arrest of the men had been sent and probably will reach the United States marshals at the proper places in time to permit the arrests early next week. District Attorney Charles W. Miller by Tuesday night probably will be informed that all the defendants have been taken into custody. Federal Judge A. B. Anderson has had extra provision made in his court room for the arraignment and trials.

The marriage was at a hotel in the negro quarter conducted by Frank Sutton, who witnessed the ceremony with a city detective.

FOR DOUBLE DUTY

Newport News, Va., Feb. 10.—With the launching here today of the new revenue cutters Unalga and Miami by the Newport News Shipbuilding company the United States is adding to its revenue navy under control of the treasury department through the United States revenue cutter service directed by Assistant Secretary Robert O. Bailey, two notable vessels for the work of saving life and property at sea in connection with their duties of enforcing the customs laws.

For the ceremonies in connection with the launching of the vessels, a party composed of the secretary of the treasury, Franklin MacVeagh, numerous senators and representatives and prominent officials had arranged to be present as the personal guests of the officers of the revenue cutter service.

IF MR. MITCHELL MAKES A PROMISE

Court Might Consider Immunity from Imprisonment.

GIVEN STRONG HINT

Washington, Feb. 10.—Justice Daniel T. Wright, of the District of Columbia supreme court, at the close of John Mitchell's testimony in today's hearings in the contempt proceedings against Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison "strongly recommended the propriety" of Mr. Mitchell making a promise to the court that he would obey all court injunctions in the future. Justice Wright intimated if Mr. Mitchell made such a promise before the close of the proceedings the court might consider immunity from imprisonment. Mitchell gave no intimation as to his course. Earlier in the day he had said, "My choice is that I either be vindicated or condemned upon the evidence submitted in the case."

Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, was heard today in the supreme court of the District of Columbia in the contempt of court proceedings against himself, Samuel Gompers and John Mitchell growing out of the boycott in the Bucks Stove and Range case. Mr. Gompers and Mr. Mitchell have been heard.

Secretary Morrison justified his part in the alleged contempt in the same way as did Gompers and Mitchell, saying he believed his rights of free speech and free press had been transgressed by the court's now famous injunction.

A USELESS EXISTENCE ENDED

Becomes a Victim to Newbro's Herpicide

The dandruff germ is a busy little microbe constantly at work and always doing the same thing. Apparently with fiendish intelligence it burrows down into the hair follicles, destroys the hair life and finally crowds out the hair, causing baldness.

There are two sure ways of stopping the harmful career of this invisible microbic growth. One is to wait until the germ has induced incurable baldness, after which atrophied hair follicle offers no sustenance to the germ; the other is to USE NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE.

The dandruff germ cannot exist where Newbro's Herpicide is used intelligently. By killing the dandruff germ, it thus checks further accumulations of scarf skin and prevents the hair from coming out.

While many imitations and substitutes are offered for Newbro's Herpicide, there is nothing "just like it" or "just as good."

GAVE $200 TO CHURCH.

Auburn, Ind., Feb. 10.—The will of the late Elizabeth A. Lockhart, of Fairfield township, which was presented to probate yesterday, provided for a sum of $200 to be given to the Fairfield cemetery association and a similar amount to be given to the Methodist church of Corunna. Sums ranging from $100 to $300 will be given to various heirs over the state.

HUSBAND GUILTY OF MANY WRONGS

Wife Says She Saved Him From Suicide Three Times and Then He Beat Her.

Decatur, Ind., Feb. 10.—The Harmon divorce case, in which James Harmon asks for a separation from his wife, had another inning in the circuit court yesterday when Mrs. Harmon filed her cross complaint in which she asks that the divorce decree be given to her instead of him.

She alleges a multitude of sins that she says her husband is guilty of, principal among which is cruelty. She says that on the day of their separation he struck and ejected her from their home and that as a result she was forced to go five miles through the inclement weather to seek shelter at the home of her daughter in this city.

She alleges that he is of a morose disposition and that on three different occasions he tried to commit suicide by tying a rope around his neck, but was cut down and saved by her and that then he turned on her and beat her most cruelly.

She says that some time ago she became a member of the U. B. church at Rivarre and that since that time she has been endeavoring to live a Christian life, but her husband made fun of her efforts and ridiculed her profession, and that he is of an irritable and cross disposition.

Mrs. Harmon does not ask for alimony from her husband in her complaint. The suit is, the second one brought by Harmon for divorce, the first one having been dismissed, as he alleges, on the request of his wife.

DIAMONDS ON HER HEELS.

Washington, Feb. 10.—Mrs. C. H. Anthony, of Muncie, Ind., a winter visitor in Washington, has surprised Mrs. Nicholas Longworth in startling shoe heels. Mrs. Anthony was the cynosure of all eyes at the white house reception, for although the people are used to the cut glass heels Mrs. Longworth wears on her evening slippers, they were dazzled to see that the heels of Mrs. Anthony's slippers were studded with diamonds. The slippers, which were worn with an emerald green gown, trimmed with duchess lace, were made of white satin overlaid with the same lace, and between the meshes of the lace, which also covered the heels, shone the brilliant stones.

Mrs. Anthony has gone Mrs. Longworth one better, too, because she wears the ornate heels on her walking shoes, while Mrs. Longworth keeps hers strictly for evening wear. Mrs. Anthony wore in F street and Connecticut avenue, the other day, a brown velvet suit, the heels of her brown velvet shoes being set with rows of brilliants.

AWAY GOES CATARRH AND BAD COLDS

Ely's Cream Balm Cures Sore Nose and Throat, Catarrhal Headaches and Colds.

No matter how bad your catarrh, how much your head aches, or how miserable you are with a cold in the head, nostrils stopped up, hawking, spitting, bad breath, you always get immediate relief by using Ely's Cream Balm.

Don't let your entire system be poisoned by the deadly catarrh germ which sooner or later, causes complete decay of bone and tissue. The continued dropping of the germ infected discharge down the throat leads to catarrh of the stomach and bowels.

Get a 50 cent bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist today, and you will get relief a few minutes after using it. Your headache and cold will vanish, and in a short time you will be completely rid of catarrh. Give it to the children for colds and croup. It is perfectly harmless.

ONE DOSE MAKES INDIGESTION GO

Heartburn, Gas, Sourness and Other Stomach Misery Vanishes.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or you feel bloated after eating, and you believe it is the food which fills you; if what little you eat lies like a lump of lead on your stomach; if there is difficulty in breathing after eating, eructations of sour, undigested food and acid, heartburn, brash or a belching of gas, you can make up your mind that you need something to stop food fermentation and cure Indigestion.

To make every bite of food you eat aid in the nourishment and strength of your body, you must rid your Stomach of poisons, excessive acid and stomach gas, which sours your entire meal—interferes with digestion and causes so many sufferers of Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness, Constipation, Griping, etc. Your case is no different—you are a stomach sufferer, though you may call it by some other name; your real and only trouble is that which you eat does not digest, but quickly ferments and sours, producing almost any unhealthy condition.

A case of Pape's Diapepsin will cost fifty cents at any Pharmacy here, and will convince any stomach sufferer five minutes after taking a single dose that Fermentation and Sour Stomach is causing the misery of Indigestion.

No matter if you call your trouble Catarrh of the Stomach, Nervousness or Gastritis, or by any other name—always remember that a certain cure is waiting at any drug store the moment you decide to begin its use.

Pape's Diapepsin will regulate any out-of-order Stomach within five minutes, and digest promptly, without any fuss or discomfort, all of any kind of food you eat. adv

COUNTED OUT PENNIES.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 10.—David Deloteh and Ecton Davis, colored, appeared at the marriage license window yesterday and Deloteh was asked for the $2.50 that is the usual fee for licenses. He reached down into a weighted overcoat pocket and began bringing out pennies by the fistful. Piling them on the counter he began painstakingly to count them over to Marriage Clerk Koehner. He explained to the clerk that he and Miss Davis had been engaged for two years and that the pennies had all been put into a penny bank in that time to be used later in buying the license and paying the preacher.

"See," said David, as he finished counting the 250 pennies and shook his pocket. There was a jingle that testified there were many copper pieces remaining. "Ah've got 150 of 'em left an' they've got to pay de colored preacher."

The bride is 16 and can cook, she said. David is 23.

WILL BE FOR THE ENTIRE CITY.

There is so much in Fort Wayne to do along the lines of material betterment which must be included in the general scheme of "civic improvement," that the criticisms leveled at the plans announced are perhaps not unnatural, even if they are not always just. If money is to be raised all must have some share of the burden it will impose, and if such money is to be spent all want to have some immediate portion of the benefit it will confer.

The reasonable view should, however, be taken that the scheme in its entirety is vast and that to carry it out at all a beginning must somewhere be established. There is no purpose to plunder one section of the city for the benefit of another. The plans, as so far made—and they are fairly complete—show that every district of the city is embraced in the purpose to give Fort Wayne a system of parks and driveways. A large park is in design for each of the four corners of the city, all to be joined by a connected succession of boulevards and drives which shall make not only a complete girdle of the city, but present transverse lines to join the sections by shorter courses. The entire city is embraced in these plans and no region will be deprived of the benefits, either in the matter of convenience to an enjoyment of the improvements or the property increasements which naturally will follow.

The river improvement feature of the scheme has attracted most attention and provoked most hostility both because it presents the greatest single phase of the plans and involves the largest expenditure of money. It should be understood and appreciated that the rivers are not only the keynote of any possible scheme of beautification in Fort Wayne, but are the key to the entire situation of cleanliness and sanitation. Fort Wayne can be neither clean nor beautiful with nine miles of watercourses used as open sewers flowing between double that mileage of embankments disfigured with stables and outhouses, befouled with filth and littered with debris.

If Fort Wayne means to make herself both clean and beautiful she must have complete possession and control of what is her greatest potential asset of beauty and her most extensive possibility of hideousness, dirt and filth. These are the three water-courses that are joined a few squares from the center of the city. If the eighteen miles of river banks are to be owned by the city the time to get possession of them is now. The plan by which to do it is the purchase at once of all that cannot be secured by donation. The only presented method of raising the necessary money is by an issue of bonds. To postpone this purchase will add vastly to the future cost of it. To make it piecemeal will be to multiply difficulties and annoyances as well as expense.

If the collection of garbage in this city is to have the efficiency the people are taxed to pay for, the service must be placed upon a new basis. There is no way by which a contractor can be made to pursue any other than his notions of efficiency. With municipal collection public satisfaction will be the standard of efficiency and the city government, with its responsibility direct, will strive to set up such a standard. And public satisfaction means service to the entire city, especially including those regions to which garbage collection is unknown.

While the United States senate halts in uncertainty before the arbitration treaties, Germany, Great Britain, France and Japan are in renewed heat for vast naval expansion. World peace is coming, no doubt, but evidently by the heavier armament route, on the theory that the way to prevent war is to get every nation in fear to take a chance. Meanwhile, the burdens of armament are borne by the same weary shoulders in all lands.

Governor Harmon is giving himself another good start with the Ohio progressives by opposition to the referendum proposed for the new constitution a convention is framing for that state. The people will have to pass on this constitution—a procedure which is itself an example of the referendum—and it may be just as well to ascertain how they feel about it. New constitutions are not frequent.

All gossip to the effect that Mayor Gaynor is the nucleus of a presidential boom is principally rot. Keep your eye on Willyum Randolph Hearst. He will be the sign by which you may unfailingly tell when Mayor Gaynor has started to run for president. Editor Hearst will not be a puzzle to anybody.

If Fort Wayne is going to improve as she plans to improve, the best means to that end will be an understanding by the whole community that it is everybody up and looking forward, and none eyeing the others with suspicion and distrust.

If the press reports do not misinterpret the judicial atmosphere in Justice Wright's' court in Washington, the labor men cited for contempt had a reason.

IMPERSONATES THE RED MAN'S DREAM OF HOME.

(A Song—With Unpublished Music.)
"Fort Wayne or On the Banks of Maumee."

[Evidently the plot for this production is Lakeside where the author resides and studies its interesting history back to the days when its wild secluded haunts were as much the pride of the native redman as it is today of its wide-awake progressives of the coming city of the middle west. The author has arranged two melodies for his song—one a product of his own, the other an Indian melody of Prof. Verwier—neither of which is yet published in merchantable form.]

O, I've come back to view the spot
Where in childhood's days I played,
'Neath the low drooping branches
Where my mother's form was lay'd,
Where the tall elms were bending
O'er the waters darkened crest,
And our home amid the wildwood
That our fathers loved the best.

CHORUS.
But the only thing I see
That looks natural to me,
Is the bright, dancing ripples
On the waters of Maumee.

Though young, I still remember
How our crude old log canoe
Plied among the drooping willows,
To evade the white man's view,
And how our tears were falling
When he drove us to the west,
Away from dear old Maumee
And my mother's place of rest.

CHORUS.
But the only thing I see
That looks natural to me.
Is the bright, dancing ripples
On the waters of Maumee.

Oh, our home is broken up
And no wigwam can I see,
And my mother's grave is marked
With the stub of the elm tree;
Oh, my heart is sad and lonely
Since I wandered from the west
To view the scenes of childhood
And my mother's place of rest.

CHORUS.
But the only thing I see
That looks natural to me.
Is the bright, dancing ripples
On the waters of Maumee.

FIVE YEARS IN THE ARMY.

(Grand Rapids Press.)

The bill for the reorganization of the United States army, now before congress, proposes, among other innovations, the extension of enlistments from three to five years. Hardly anything could be more foolish. Such a lengthening of the term would discourage men from joining the army. American young men as a class are impatient of restraint; the very thought that they must give up their liberty for three years keeps many from military life who otherwise are attracted by it. Of those who do enlist hundreds desert every year. Homesickness and general restlessness rather than actual dissatisfaction with army conditions are responsible for half of these.

It would be far better if the term of enlistment were made for two years or even one year. Then thousands of young men who value the physical training and the instruction in discipline which a soldier receives would join. Many at the end of a one or a two-year term would re-enlist. The others would go back into civil life, but the nation would profit by the building up of a great reserve body of men who had had actual experience in soldiering. If the plans now on foot to provide some means for keeping track of honorably discharged men come to a head it would mean that a greater percentage of the population could be relied on for efficient service in case of real trouble. Also there would be many straighter backs and squarer shoulders in the country than there are today.

The ideals of the American nation are not militaristic. That is an undenied fact. Yet it seems too bad to miss the real good there is in the military standard of ethics and of life. The Germans, distinctively military, are the most efficient folk in the world today. How much of that efficiency has come from the habits of faithfulness and discipline inculcated in the shortest military career is an open question. Part at least is due to the patience and self-control which military life cultivates

History of the League.

The Anti-Saloon league was born in 1895, at Washington, D. C. A call was issued by Bishop Luther B. Wilson, of the M. E. church, to initiate a general Anti-Saloon league movement throughout the nation. At this time Dr. Howard Russell was chosen the first national superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America. Dr. Russell was formerly pastor of the Armour church in Chicago.

From a small beginning at Washington the movement has grown until every state in the Union is thoroughly organized. There are well equipped offices now established in almost all of the larger cities of the country. In charge of each office is a superintendent who gives his entire attention to the work assigned him. In addition to the stenographers and district superintendents, each state league has attorneys who give their time to the formulation of bills, the organization of the dry forces and in the trial of cases in court. These lawyers give their time without charge, for the trial of cases either in the supreme court or in the circuit court.

The Anti-Saloon league is, as its name implies, not so much an organization as a league of organizations. The chief units of organization are the various churches. In addition to this, the Good Templars, the Woman's Christian Temperance union and other organizations work through the league.

The majority of trustees are chosen by the various official bodies of the churches. The Methodist Episcopal, the Methodist Protestant, the Baptist, the United Brethren, the Congregationalists, the Reformed, the general synod of the Lutheran church, the Evangelical church, the Christian and a number of other churches regularly elect trustees to manage the affairs of the league. The Presbyterian church, because of a technicality in their constitution, cannot elect trustees except to ecclesiastical bodies, and since the Good Templars and the Woman's Christian Temperance union are entitled to membership on the board of trustees of the Anti-Saloon league, it is not technically a church organization. The Presbyterian church, however, nominates trustees who are elected by the state board. There are also a few trustees at large chosen from among the strong men of the state. The Roman Catholic Total Abstinence society endorses this movement and Roman Catholics are represented on the official board of every state league. It is therefore fair to say that the Anti-Saloon league is the federated church in action for the solution of this problem.

The Anti-Saloon league stands for the largest unit of saloon exclusion possible of attainment. It does not stand for saloon regulation. In one state it may be fighting for the township and city local option law, because that is the best thing obtainable. In another state it may be working for the right of the people of a county to exclude the saloon from their midst. In another state it may be fighting for a law giving the people of the entire state a right to vote upon this question. At the same time it is not neglecting to do what lies in its power at Washington. A legislative office in charge of Rev. E. C. Dinwiddie, of the Lutheran church, is maintained there.

What It Stands For.

While the league seeks to secure such laws as public sentiment will sustain, it does not forget the primary task of individual work and the creation of public sentiment through public meetings and through the press. It now owns and operates a printing plant at Westerville, a suburb of Columbus, Ohio. Westerville is the seat of Otterbein university and is an ideal location for the printing plant. Dr. Howard Russell, the founder of the league, is now to give his entire time to a total abstinence campaign. He is now planning to organize the boys of America. It is hoped that one of the first camps organized may be in the city of Fort Wayne. There will be just enough of uniform and ritual to please and hold the boys. Dr. Russell's phenomenal success in work of this kind while at Chicago especially fits him to found this new boys' movement. This boys' organization is but a beginning of the plans which the league has in mind for this department. It now has more than a million total abstinence pledge cards on file at the headquarters at Westerville.

The official paper of the Anti-Saloon league is the American Issue. This is now one of the most widely circulated and read of all the papers in America. It is found in almost every village in the Union. Many of the states have special state editions, which, in addition to the matter prepared by the national editors, have much material of local interest to state readers.

This printing plant at Westerville is also preparing and printing a splendid library of the newest and best books dealing with the various phases of this problem. The National Reform bureau is expecting to make this printing press its headquarters for supplies and its official press.

The efficiency of the movement is attested by those who have the best chance to know its strength, the liquor men, and the following quotations are what they say on this subject:

"We have had many so-called temperance and prohibition waves in this country in the past, but never before such a well-organized movement as the one being directed by the Anti-Saloon league. It would be foolish to refuse credit to men who are directing this movement for great ability, directness of purpose and generalship. * * * * The wine and spirit trade is now outlawed in most of the territory south, and in over one-half of the geographical area of the United States, and that is what the Anti-Saloon league is expected to do."—Bonfort's Wine and Spirits Circular.

"The league has no politics. It works as effectively in democratic as in republican communities. It has done much more in the south in recent times than it has in the rest of the country. More democrats are residing in dry territory than republicans. All parties look alike to the Anti-Saloon league."—Pittsburg Liquor Dealers' Journal.

"The worst enemy the saloonists have to contend with is the Anti-Saloon league."—Knights of Fidelity News.

In large areas in both the north and the south the saloon is now prohibited. The result of the closing of the saloons has been almost invariably a large decrease in the amount of alcoholic liquor consumed and in the amount of crime. Drunkenness and personal assaults have been largely decreased. The losing of the saloons, however, does not of itself mean a sober and law-abiding and industrious people, and therefore does not include all the work of the league. The moral and educational part of the work is never overlooked.

Another purpose of the league is to secure such united action upon the part of good citizens as will result in the election of officials who are not only pledged to support the laws and enforce them, but who actually do so. No law will enforce itself without a strong and sympathetic executive back of it.

The Indiana league has five district offices in each of the five larger cities of the state—Indianapolis, Evansville, Fort Wayne, Terre Haute and South Bend. There is a district superintendent in charge of each of these districts, besides the state superintendent, the assistant state superintendent and the state attorney. All of these men will be in the city on Sunday and will speak in the various churches.

The Indiana league is now seeking to secure a re-enactment of the county option law, and later state-wide prohibition by constitutional provision. This may be secured either by the writing of a new constitution or by an amendment of the present constitution. It is believed by the officers of the league that a large majority of the voters of Indiana are in favor of a law that will make it possible, not only for cities and townships, but for counties as well, to exclude the liquor traffic. It is also believed that a large majority of the voters in Indiana are in favor of state-wide banishment of the saloons. It is believed that nothing else would do so much to increase the prosperity of our cities and to decrease the amount of crime and poverty as the closing of the saloons which now thrive in their midst.

The Best Cough Syrup is Easily Made at Home

Costs Little and Acts Quickly. Money Refunded If It Fails.

This recipe makes a pint of cough syrup, and saves you about $2.00 as compared with ordinary cough remedies. It stops obstinate coughs—even whooping cough—in a hurry, and is splendid for sore lungs, asthma, croup, hoarseness and other throat troubles.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours. Tastes good.

This takes right hold of a cough and gives almost instant relief. It stimulates the appetite, and is slightly laxative—both excellent features.

Pinex, as perhaps you know, is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guaiacol and the other natural healing pine elements.

No other preparation will do the work of Pinex in this recipe, although strained honey can be used instead of the sugar syrup, if desired.

Thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada now use this Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe. This plan has often been imitated, but the old successful formula has never been equaled. Its low cost and quick results have made it immensely popular.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you.

Keep Your Old Silk Dress

Make It Look New

OLOKLEN DOES THE BUSINESS

Don't throw away your old silk dress. Not until you try cleaning it with Oloklen.

Just put your old silk dress in gasoline and wash it, using Oloklen in the gasoline exactly as you would use soap in water.

Then you will be very glad you kept your fine old silk instead of making a shirt waist or fancy quilt out of it.

Oloklen is the secret the professional dry cleaners have kept for so long. It is the secret of their excellent work and their high prices.

But now the secret is yours. Oloklen costs but fifty cents a can, enough to do ten to fifteen dollars worth of dry cleaning. A smaller can at twenty-five cents.

For sale by druggists everywhere. If your druggist does not have it, send to Edw. L. Mertz, Mfg. Chemist, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Men Who Helped to Make America

General Edmund Pendleton Gaines

GENERAL EDMUND PENDLETON GAINES, who was a valiant fighter in several minor wars subsequent to the Revolution, was a Virginian. He was born early in the Revolution, in Culpeper county, March 20, 1777.

He was only twenty-two years of age when, in 1799, he was appointed second lieutenant in the Sixth Regiment of the United States Infantry. In 1805 he became Collector of the Port of Mobile, Ala., and in 1807 received the rank of captain.

He served in the War of 1812 with distinction. After the American victory of Lundy's Lane, in July, 1814, the most obstinate of the war, Generals Brown and Scott being severely wounded, General Ripley conducted the army to Fort Erie, where General Gaines soon afterward took command. Here he remained on duty until wounded. He was subsequently elevated to the rank of brevet major general.

EDMUND PENDLETON GAINES

Toward the close of 1817 the Seminoles in Florida, joined by other Indians, commenced depredations on the frontier settlements of Georgia. During this war General Gaines commanded the Southern Military district. This war led to difficulties between the United States and Spain, which resulted in a treaty in 1819 by which Florida was ceded to the United States.

General Gaines was next placed in command of the Western Military district, in 1821.

Toward the close of 1835 the Seminoles again became hostile in consequence of an attempt to remove them to lands west of the Mississippi, in accordance with a treaty which had been made with some of their chiefs, but which others did not consider binding.

The second war with the Seminoles was a result and General Gaines again took the field, and was again wounded in 1837.

He was in the Department of the Southwest when the war with Mexico was declared, and would no doubt have fought in that conflict if death had not intervened. He died in New Orleans June 6, 1849.

The report of the mission for the month of January is as follows: Men sent away to work from mission, 93; men furnished work at mission, 45; garments given away, 231; families furnished provisions, 5; attendance, 2,844; men sheltered on chapel floor, 1,092; men prayed with, 42; women prayed with, 3; women furnished employment, 8; missionary calls made, 110.

The superintendent wishes to thank the people of Fort Wayne for co-operating with him and making it possible to do this work, which is very much needed among this class of people. He says: "The meetings at the mission are growing in interest and are being blessed in many ways. We are very anxious to get the young people of the different churches to make up a chorus for Saturday night. We hope by doing this that it may be the means of getting a great many people in off the streets to a place where they can hear good singing, and at the same time get them under the influence of the gospel."

DEPOSITS HEAVY AT THE OPENING

South Branch of German-American Trust Begins Business.

FIRST DEPOSITORS

When the south branch of the German-American Trust company, located in its splendid new building at the corner of Calhoun and Holman streets, opened its doors for business this morning, the first depositor in the commercial department was the Hayes hotel and the first depositor in the savings department was M. W. Wardrop, the division superintendent of the Pennsylvania Railroad company.

From that time forward, until the closing hour, depositors followed in rapid order and men behind the four receiving windows of the company were kept constantly busy.

Theo. Wentz, the vice president of the company, who was doing the honors to callers at the branch today, said, when The Sentinel reporter made his appearance at the receiving window: "The volume of our business for the opening day has exceeded all our expectations."

The company begins its career auspiciously. In its splendid new building it has rooms that are finely adapted for its business, its arrangement being modern in every detail. Everything about the bank arrangement, as is the case with the building in general, is first class. John J. Disser, the assistant secretary of the German-American Trust company, is the manager in charge of the south branch.

The Federal Securities.

In the same room, with offices in front, is located the offices of the Federal Securities and Investment company, in charge of J. G. Wolfrum, the secretary-treasurer, having just moved from its former quarters. The company, in addition to transacting a general real estate and fire insurance business, is conducting the building of homes for people on the partial payment plan. The company builds the homes and then with a small payment allows the purchaser to pay for it at his convenience.

It was the first company in Fort Wayne to conceive and adopt this plan. It started in June of 1903 with a capital stock of $25,000. Its capital is now $100,000. At present it has twenty-five houses in course of erection along its plans, building them to suit the purchasers.

HONOR MEMORY OF LINCOLN.

Ladies of G. A. R. Assemble for Annual Celebration of Lincoln's Birth.

The Ladies of the G. A. R. held their first annual celebration of the birth of Lincoln at Vordermark hall on Calhoun street Friday evening, a large attendance being recorded. The obligation of one comrade and one son of a veteran was received and one sister was initiated before the opening of the program.

The program was opened with singing the "Star Spangled Banner," all present joining in the song. Thomas Blair read a paper on "The Early Life of Lincoln," and G. B. Place a paper on "Lincoln's Humorous Propensities." The program was closed with a reading on "Lincoln's Public and Presidential Life," by W. A. Kelsey.

In reading his paper Mr. Kelsey called for Lincoln's Gettysburg speech, which was given by Frank Gibson. Following this Mr. Kelsey requested the recitation, "Volunteers," which was delivered by Mrs. George Winning. A letter written to her by her husband, who was then her sweetheart, in which Lincoln's love for the soldiers was told, was read by Mrs. Mary J. Stirk. Following the program refreshments were served.

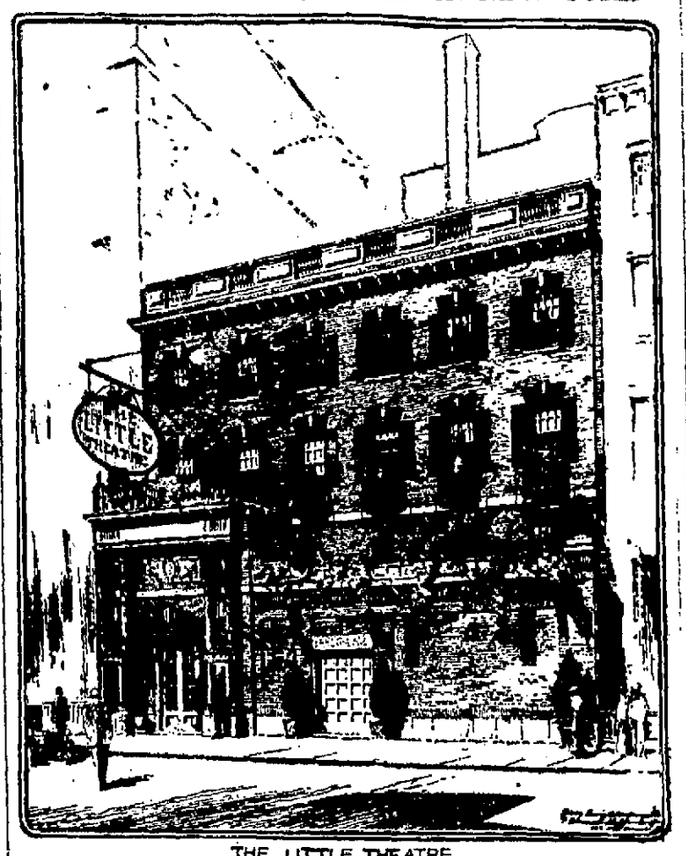
TINY PLAYHOUSE TO OPEN IN NEW YORK.



THE LITTLE THEATRE

New York's littlest theatre of the first class, built for Mr. Winthrop Ames, formerly director of the New Theatre, and appropriately named the Little Theatre, is nearing completion, at No. 240 West Forty-second street, one hundred yards west of Broadway, and will be opened the first week in March.

Thus will be inaugurated the latest and of course the most up to date little bandbox of a theatre that Broadway has ever had to talk about. It will be by all odds the smallest theatre here devoted to dramatic productions; seating less than five hundred.

UNION HOME FOR SICK AND AGED.

Plan Under Way by Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.

Indianapolis, Feb. 10.—A plan for the erection and maintenance of a union home for the sick and aged today was approved by a sub-committee of the executive board of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America. The report of the sub-committee which will be acted on at the summer meeting of the executive board and then referred to the members for a referendum vote places the cost of the institution at about $300,000.

The report recommends that a site of about 200 acres of tilable land be obtained where the climate is moderate, so that the beneficiaries of the institution may help to maintain the home. It is shown by the report that a per capita tax of 15 cents a month will be necessary for the maintenance of the home.

MISHAP COSTS VETERAN'S LEG.

Colonel Who Survived War Unscathed Maimed by Stubbing Toe.

New York, Feb. 10.—After going through the civil war, serving as an aid on Gen. Lee's staff, without receiving a wound, Col. Beverly Winfred Wrenn lost his left leg in New York the other day as the result of stubbing his toe a month ago. Blood poisoning developed and it was found necessary to amputate the limb just below the thigh. Despite his advanced years the colonel stood the operation well and it is believed that he will recover.

TO WED BLONDE AND GET $75,000

Charles Corbin Obedient to Stipulation in Father's Will.

DECLINES TO TALK

New Britain, Conn., Feb. 10.—Charles Corbin, who received $75,000 last December from the estate of his father, Philip Corbin, millionaire manufacturer, and who is to receive $75,000 more if he marries within a stipulated time, was dolling a cigarette in the fine old Corbin mansion here, where he lives alone with an old housekeeper, when a correspondent interviewed him.

"Is it true that you are going to marry again?" was asked.

Corbin rolled his cigarette furiously, then tossed it from him and replied, his voice trembling with suppressed rage:

"Whose affair is it if I am to marry? It's my affair solely." Then, less heatedly, "Oh, yes; of course, the woman has something to say about it. But, really, I can't see why any one is interested outside my own relatives.

"Well, go ahead. If you want to publish it, do so. It is of no consequence to me. Yes, I am going to be married."

Corbin flatly refused to give the name of his fiancee or tell the date and place of the wedding.

"Will you be married in your home here?" was asked.

"I refuse to say. I must now request that this interview cease. I will add, however, that the marriage will be a very quiet affair."

Residents of New Britain say that the woman who will be the second Mrs. Corbin is a widow, and that her maiden name was Ward. She visited the old Corbin home last Thanksgiving and attracted much attention by her appearance. She is unusually large, with broad shoulders and much wavy, yellow hair. Some of Corbin's neighbors say her home is in New Bedford, others in Fall River, still others in Providence.

Mr. Corbin met her when he was in Oak Bluffs, Mass., after old Philip Corbin had sent him into seclusion.

The marriage will take place this month, it is expected.

Mrs. Lillian Blakesley Corbin, Charles' first wife, who divorced him because of his habits, lives in New York. She supported by her son.

In fact the Prince will have two homes, as the orders from the home government.

Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, and Countess von Bernstorff expect to leave for Germany before the time set for the arrival of Prince Adelbert.

WILL DEFY SCHOOL BOARD.

Greek Letter Fraternity at Shelbyville Looking for Fight.

Shelbyville, Ind., Feb. 10.—Members of the local chapter Phi Delta Kappa fraternity, after consulting a lawyer, have decided not to disband under the order of the school board. The school authorities acting in conjunction with officials in other cities of the state have threatened suspension to students members of "frats." The local chapter says the matter will be carried into the courts and awaits the action of the school board.

Hartford City, Ind., Feb. 10.—L. C. DeCamp, principal of the high school, has notified proprietors of cigar stores that prosecutions will result if students are not barred from pool rooms. It is said that the young men have been spending their time in pool rooms since their fraternities have been disbanded.

Hart—Banning.

A lovely bride of today was Miss Florida J.J. Banning, whose marriage to Mr. Charles B. Hart took place at half past 9 o'clock at St. Patrick's church. The nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. J. F. Delaney and solos were sung by Miss Scheumann and Mr. Maurice Niezer. Miss Bertha Medsker was bridesmaid and Mr. Hugh Hart, a brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Messrs. James McBennett and August Fox were ushers. The bride looked exceedingly well in a beautiful cloth suit of white English whipcord and a white hat of maribou and ostrich plumes. The dress was made simply and at the church door the bride took off her long coat and went to the marriage service without it. Her dress was made in one-piece effect with blouse of lace and ornaments of pearl passamenterie. Miss Medsker was gowned in white whipcord and the waist of her gown was of gold beaded net and there were trimmings of pink satin, while her hat of silk beaver was all white with the exception of a cluster of ping rosebuds. The bride's flowers were a bouquet of bride roses and maidenhair fern and the bridesmaid carried pink roses and forget-me-nots. After the marriage the bridal party and relatives were driven to the home of the bride's mother, Dr. Carrie Banning, 1148 Kinnaird avenue, where the wedding breakfast was served. Covers were laid for twenty-four and Mrs. Wishart catered. The table was decorated in white roses, garlands of smilax and the wedding cake trimmed with smilax and white roses. After a few days' wedding trip the bride and groom will be at home in their own home, 3202 Hoagland avenue, which is ready for occupancy. For traveling the bride wore a gown of blue serge and a gray fur coat with hat to match. The only out of town guest was Mr. William Warrington, of New York, a brother-in-law of the bride. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Hart, of West DeWald street, and is a young man held in very high esteem by all who know him. He has worked himself up to a position of responsibility and worth as meter expert with the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company. The bride is a bright and wholly sweet and charming young woman. She has been teaching in the South Wayne school for several years and will complete the year's work, owing to the scarcity of teachers.

Celebrate Silver Wedding.

Twenty-five years ago, February 8, Miss Hattie Heilbroner and Mr. Isidor Lehman were married by Dr. Aaron, of this city. Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Lehman were the recipients of many expressions of regard and affection from their friends in honor of the anniversary and last evening there was a family dinner party at the Lehman residence in West Wayne street. Miss Louise Lehman assisted her parents in receiving the callers. The rooms were fragrant with many beautiful roses, carnations, sweetpeas and other spring flowers sent by relatives and friends and the handsomely laid dinner table expressed the festivity of the occasion. Foliage plants and chandeliers and mantels decorated in smilax and ferns were further floral adornment for the occasion. A highly ornamented bride's cake bore the wedding date and anniversary year in silver figures. Among the gifts that Mr. and Mrs. Lehman received was an ice cream platter in sterling silver and silver candalbra. The first gift was from the congregation of the synagogue and the other was expressive of good wishes of the choir of that church. Both Mr. and Mrs. Lehman are conspicuous in the activities of their religious faith and in the philanthropic work which the congregation carries on. Socially Mr. and Mrs. Lehman have many friends. In business Mr. Lehman is prominent and highly regarded. He is president and treasurer of the Lehman Shoe company and president and manager of the Independent Rubber company.

SAMUEL PORTER.

Born eighty years ago, February 8, on a farm north of the city that is now become a part of the state institution grounds, Samuel Porter talks in an interesting manner of his early life and the hardships and struggles of pioneer days. Mr. Porter has been making his home with a daughter, Mrs. John Feaser, of 1119 Maple avenue, since an attack of paralysis that has left his right side disabled, but that is about the only sign of advanced age noticeable on a visit with Mr. Porter. He hears very well and his appearance in no way suggests that he has lived four score years. Mr. Porter came originally from a Virginia family, though his parents were born in Ohio. He married a Miss Sarah McGinnis, whose death occurred many years ago and since then Mr. Porter has lived on his farm in Aboite township, raising his children who in turn have cared for him as time and illness brought about the need of their aid. As soon as warm weather comes on Mr. Porter will return to the farm, accompanied by his daughter and son, Mr. and Mrs. Feaser, all of whom long for the country. Mr. Porter's children are Mrs. H. L. Moudy, of Cedarville; Mrs. James Rousseau, of St. Mary's avenue; Mrs. William E. Clark, of Lafayette township, and Samuel H. Porter, who travels for the Seavey Hardware company.

Helpful Hints on Entertaining for Hostess

The After Theater Supper May Be Given Economically at Home —Little Expense, Less Trouble.

There are a great many women who would like to entertain, but do not feel that they can afford the expense which entertaining entails. For instance, they would like to invite a few friends to the theater, but supper afterward, now an almost necessary part of the evening program, presents too big a problem.

At any one of the big hotels or best restaurants midnight meal means an expenditure of several dollars, an amount which many would-be hostesses fell they cannot afford, in addition to the price of the theater tickets. How about supper at home? Nothing could be easier, or less expensive, if properly prepared. A supper served at midnight in the privacy of one's home is a very enjoyable affair. There is an irresponsible gayety in the talk as also a zest in the food that are lacking at other meals.

An Impromptu Party.

At an impromptu meal the chafing dish is a useful adjunct. The old favorite, lobster Newburg, is ever welcome as a dish, and it is ready at a moment's notice if you want it. Have a pint of lobster cut in dice well warmed in a pint of cream, the yolks of three eggs, salt, pepper and a dash of sherry. This may be prepared before hand and can be readily reheated. Follow with a plain lettuce salad.

Little pigs in blankets, if you prefer them, too, may be easily prepared. Wrap large oysters with thin slices of bacon. At night the little pigs are put in a frying pan, browned, and then served on strips of toast with lemon.

Deviled or curried lobster or chicken make other favorite dishes at midnight

Easy to Prepare.

Creamed oysters with celery and chopped nut salad are good, and so, too, are sweetbreads and chicken creamed together. Duck served with chopped olives and currant jelly mixed in gravy makes a nice dish. Parmesan eggs you will find very appetizing. Boil six eggs hard, take off the whites and cut them into large pieces. Mash the yolks smooth with one tablespoonful of oil, one of mustard, a dash of paprika, salt and two drops of tabasco sauce. Mix the whites in one cupful of white sauce and then put the yolks through a potato ricer; lay the whites on hot buttered toast sprinkled with Parmesan cheese and place the yolks on top.

WARDROBE HINTS.

Gowns of changeable taffeta are still fashionable. The newest models are trimmed with scalloped ruffles. This is a decidedly new touch, for it means that skirts are fuller.

The short jacket and skirt of a prune colored cloth suit are shown scalloped on the bottom.

Negligees appear with scalloped fichus of mousseline de soie or sheer linen.

Dresses of pongee or linen for children are attractive with the yoke, sleeves and skirt finished with scallops embroidered with bright colored silk or linen.

A stunning evening gown of bright blue satin brocaded with blue velvet has a short tunic of mousseline de soie. This is edged with a dull gold braid.

Tunics of velvet appear upon many of the gowns of mousseline de soie.

Yellow, in all shades and tints, is exceedingly fashionable. Palest corn yellow, amber, chamois and mustard appear in many designs.

For the tailored suit old gold and khakai are used. These are trimmed with bands of seal or skunk.

A pretty collarette is of black chiffon and white lace. It is extremely long over the shoulders, capelike, and edged with a narrow fringe of steel beads.

WARDROBE HINTS.

To remove creases from velvet or to raise the nap where it has been pressed down, take a moderately hot flatiron and rub the back of the velvet across the iron, holding the velvet in each hand and rubbing it across the iron with a steady, gentle pressure until the nap is raised.

It is very easy to make a new parasol of an old one by carefully ripping off the old cloth and using it as a pattern to cut a new one, which may be made either of cretonne or English chintz.

KITCHENETTES.

If, when boiling milk sauces, custards, stews, porridges or liquids, you place a large, clean marble in the sauce pan it will automatically do the stirring during the cooking process and will save you standing and wasting precious time in doing it with a spoon. It prevents any burning and you can attend to the rest of your work while the marble is busily helping you.

To take a cork out of a bottle when there is neither a corkscrew nor a knife at hand, stick two safety pins diagonally through the cork, opposite each other. By pulling on the upper part of the two pins one can remove the cork easily.

MATTERS OF INTEREST TO WOMEN.

A recent wedding ceremony has "brought to a head" the discussion on the "obey" clause which has been simmering for so long. There is still some disapproval against the omission of the debatable word, but it is extremely probable that if marriage were not entered into chiefly by people who are in love it would have been barred from the service long ago.

The woman in love cares little for the terms of the ceremony. Usually she has just discovered that to serve is even more delightful than to be adored, while it is impossible for her to conceive of her lover wishing her to do anything to which she would conscientiously object.

When Love Has Passed.

The man in like case would see no injustice in terms much stronger, for he cannot imagine his wishes for his future wife's conduct being other than those she could be happy in.

It may be, however, that each finds that love "is a thing that passes, leaving one a little sad." Angelina, in the sober after years, may wonder how she came to report that form of an obsolete plea. Edwin, when he tackles the disagreeable business of raking over the ashes of the dead fires of his courtship, may be amazed that the world calmly allotted him this sovereignty over a human life.

The Tyranny of Affection.

Ask any unhappy wife her opinion of the "obey" clause and the chances are that her answer will be in terms of deep disgust or derision. Ask any happy wife; she will probably laugh and declare that she never considered it worth thinking about at all.

It may be wondered whether "obedience," in the strict sense of the word, exists between adults of equal social standing. In marriage there is bound to be a sway of will over will, but this is not a matter of command and obedience, and exists no less in all other human relationships.

Indeed, many women who have reluctantly given up what they mistakenly believed to be their "freedom" in order to marry, have found that far wider liberties and mental developments are possible to them than they could ever have experienced under the old circumstances. In this sense a woman can no more "belong to" a husband than she does to her parents and immediate relatives.

Often the domination of these latter amounts to a tyranny, yet she is not legally obliged to "obey" any of them. Where affection exists there also is obligation.

The custom of dispensing with the "giving away" of the bride is one that is steadily gaining ground. Few things are more inappropriate than the "giving away" (perhaps by a younger brother, a complacent mother or a strange uncle) of a dominating young woman who, as every member of the congregation knows, has for years managed the affairs of her family, including the wedding itself.

The Uses and Abuses of the Boudoir Cap

Some Points on How to Wear the Dainty Caps Now So Popular.

The caps and the caplike toques or bonnets so much worn absolutely demand that some loose, fluffy hair shall be drawn down low enough on the forehead or over the ears to show below the ears. This is not always easy, but a little experiment will usually teach a woman how to arrange her hair for this effect.

If she feels that she must pull her hair straight back into curlers or into a knot hastily made on top of her head in a hurried breakfast toilet, let her go to the hair dresser's for first aid and buy some sort of fluffy front piece that may peep from under the edge of her breakfast cap and save the situation.

This can be done most satisfactorily if she will devote the necessary time, thought and money to the thing; but a false fringe or front unwisely chosen and carelessly adjusted is unattractive; so let no one approach the experiment in a careless or penurious mood.

There are breakfast and boudoir caps of many kinds, caps of satin, of lace, of net, of muslin, caps pretentious and caps simple. On the whole the models in net and lace or fine lingerie materials and lace are the most appropriate, though much depends upon the negligee with which the cap is to be worn.

As a rule the cap with full crown and full border is the most becoming, and it is undoubtedly the type most easily made, but where they are becoming some of the more original models are quainter and more effective.

An adorable little evening frock is a puff ball thing of white crepe chiffon, relieved by touches of tender pink and blue, which, when desired, could be supplemented by a quaint high-waist coat of pale pink chiffon taffeta, trimmed with narrow bouillonnees.

There is such art in the designing and creating of these essentially filmy frocks. Few would surmise the amount of thought and care and work expended in a confection that can almost be pulled through the fingers of one hand. And it will doubtless have been observed that they are never to be found in the ready to wear models.

TIMELY TIPS.

Where there are several long haired little girls in a family the shampooing amounts to a tiresome and trying task. One mother, whose little daughter has unusually luxuriant hair, has robbed the process of most of its terrors.

"Instead of having my little girl lean over a bowl, with all her hair turned the wrong way over her face," she says, "I now let her lie out straight, in as comfortable a position as she wishes. A couch will answer the purpose, or any flat surface.

"I braid the hair very loosely in two braids, roll a bath towel under her neck, and place a table so that it comes on the same level with her head, with her hair hanging over into a bowl of water placed on the table. I wash first one side and then the other, rinse well, and wash the braids thoroughly. The drying and combing are easily accomplished, because the hair has been in its natural order all the time."

A locomotive with ten cars must travel five miles before it can attain a speed of a mile a minute. But at this speed it can be halted by airbrakes in seven hundred feet.

RECIPES.

Macaroni and Cheese.

In a saucepan have fully three quarts of boiling salted water. Into this drop a half package of macaroni broken in two inch pieces, cover until at a fast boil then partly uncover and keep boiling hard until tender. Drain in a colander. On a hot platter put alternate layers of the macaroni and grated cheese, sprinkling each layer with melted butter. Turn through with two forks and serve at once. This may be changed by substituting a nice meat sauce or a strained tomato sauce for the butter.

Charlotte Russe.

Soak one-quarter of a package of gelatine in one-quarter of a cupful of cold water. Beat together two eggs, one-third of a cupful of sugar and one cupful of milk; stir over the fire in a double boiler until it is a thick custard. Add the soaked gelatine, take from the fire and stir until the gelatine has dissolved, then strain. Set aside until it begins to thicken, then add one teaspoonful of vanilla and one tablespoonful of sherry, and whip hard. As it begins to thicken add lightly one pint of heavy cream whipped to a firm froth and turn carefully through from the bottom for a moment or two. Have a mold lined with split lady fingers. Fill with the charlotte and garnish with candied cherries or other fruits.

DEDICATION SUNDAY OF SPLENDID NEW SIMPSON METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

The Sermons of the Morning and Evening Will Be Delivered by Bishop Wm. F. McDowell, of Chicago, One of the Great Divines of Methodism—The Festival of Giving Will Be in Charge of Dr. W. D. Parr, of Kokomo—Great Union Meeting in the Afternoon.

The Third Child of Methodism in Fort Wayne, the Simpson, Has Had a Prosperous Career—Its History, Its Former Pastors and Its Present Minister and Officers—Seating 1,200 People the New Church on the South Side is Among the Finest in the City.

The dedication of the handsome new temple of worship of the Simpson Methodist Episcopal church, at Harrison and Suttenfield streets, which occurs tomorrow, is an event in the history of Methodism in this city that is an important and interesting one. It marks another completed step of the wonderful progress made by the denomination in Fort Wayne, a denomination that was a pioneer in the religious work of the city and of Northern Indiana.

The program includes meetings held in the forenoon, afternoon and evening, all of which will be fraught with interest. Especially noteworthy is the fact that the sermons of the day, at the services in the forenoon and evening, will be preached by one of the leading Methodist bishops of the country, Rev. Wm. F. McDowell, LL. D., of Chicago.

Bishop McDowell is a magnificent pulpit orator and scholarly in his abilities. Before being elected bishop, which was in 1904, he was the chancellor of the Methodist university at Denver, Col., and previous to that president of colleges in Ohio. For several years he was one of the leading Methodist pastors in Northern Ohio.

The Rev. W. D. Parr, D. D., of Kokomo, is also one of the speakers. He is well known in Fort Wayne, having formerly been pastor of the Wayne Street M. E. church in this city. Dr. Parr is also an interesting and able speaker. He was here a few weeks ago and delivered the sermons on the occasion of the rededication of the edifice of the St. Paul M. E. church.

The meetings of the day, including the Sunday school at 9:30 a. m., are at 10:30 a. m., 2:30 p. m. and 7:30 p. m., the program in detail being as follows:

Forenoon Program.

Repeating of the Apostle's Creed.

Prayer, doxology, benediction and organ postlude.

Cost $40,000.

The new Simpson temple of worship is one of the handsomest church edifices in the city, modern in all the details of its construction and splendidly adapted for the wants of the congregation. It has cost, fully equipped for use, including all the furnishings, $40,000. With the parsonage, which stands on the West Suttenfield lot adjoining, the property of the congregation represents a value of $55,000.

The building in its dimensions is 68x110 feet, with a frontage and entrance on both Harrison and Suttenfield streets. The walls are of the best Bedford stone, rock-faced, and the roof is Bangor slate and copper. The glass of the great ornamental windows is all opalescent of the finest grade. These windows are all memorial windows, the gifts of members of the congregation, their family names being inscribed on them.

There are thirty-nine rooms in the building. These include the auditorium and Sunday school rooms and class rooms on the first floor, the reception parlors, and the dining room, kitchen, toilet and furnace rooms in the basement.

Will Seat 1,200.

A gallery extends around the north and west side of the auditorium and the Sunday school and class rooms are so arranged that their doors can be thrown open and make them a part of the auditorium. When so done a clear view is obtained from all of the rooms of the pastor in the pulpit, which, with the great pipe organ and the choir loft, is in the southeast corner of the auditorium. The auditorium proper will seat 600. When the other rooms are thrown into it 1,200 people can be comfortably seated and all with a good view of the speaker on the pulpit platform.

The heating of the building is the most improved steam system. The electric lighting is with Mazan lamps. The frescoing of the auditorium walls and that of other rooms is tint which blends into buff, being most beautiful. The seating of the lower auditorium is with pews. Opera chairs are used in the gallery and in the choir loft. One of the handsomest windows is at the south side of the auditorium. On it a beautiful picture of Christ is shown, the statue of the Savior being six feet in length.

The Church Organ.

The pipe organ cost $2,750, from the Hans-Wangerin-Weickhardt Co., of Milwaukee. It is of the latest improved type, sweet toned and in many respects superior in its construction, but not as large, however, as a few of those in the other churches in the city. It is tubular, pneumatic in its action. Professor Archer, the organist of the First Presbyterian church, will give a recital on it next Friday evening.

Nearly Forty-six Years Old.

The Simpson is the third born of the Methodist congregations of this city. The parent church is the First M. E., known for years in its old location as the Berry Street M. E. church. It dates its history back to 1830, in which year the first Methodist congregation was organized in Fort Wayne. The denomination's first church edifice here was built in 1840. It stood at the corner of Berry and Harrison streets. In 1849 the Wayne street congregation was organized. The Simpson came into existence as a congregation in June of 1860.

It was through the efforts of Rev. Andrew Wells, a local preacher belonging to the Berry street church, that the Simpson congregation was organized. The first step was the formation of a Sunday school in the southern part of the city, with George Kelker as its first superintendent and John K. Geary at its first secretary, and soon after steps were taken for the erection of a church building.

Lots at the corner of Dawson and Harrison streets were purchased and there the church edifice was erected. The charter members included Rev. Andrew Wells, George Kelker, Father and Mother Renshaw, Francis Mason and wife, Mrs. Margaret Mason-Hartman, Judith L. Cummings, Saul Flutter and wife Margaret, Jennie Flutter-Bricker, James E. Graham, James Southern.

Men in the Pulpit.

The first pastor was C. H. Wilkinson, and following him in 1869 came W. F. Walker, who served for one year as pastor. The three following years, 1870, '71 and '72, D. P. Hartman was pastor. Then in the following order for the years named: 1873, P. Carlan; 1874, J. Baldwin (a part of the year only); 1875-'76, W. S. Morris; 1877-'78, H. J. Norris; 1879-'80, F. L. Wharton; 1881-'82, C. W. Church, 1883-'84, M. C. Cooper; 1885, T. Tharp; 1886, A. T. Briggs; 1887-'88, C. H. Wilkinson; 1889, C. B. M. Rogers; 1890-'91, J. M. Driver; 1892, W. R. Suman (a part of the year); 1893, J. W. Welsh; 1894, O. E. Wilcox (seven months), R. J. Wade (five months); 1895-'96, J. W. Paschall; 1897-'98-'99-1900, T. J. Johnson; 1901, J. A. Patterson; 1905-'06 and six months of '07, J. M. Cause; 1907 and six months of '08, L. M. Edwards; 1909, R. C. Jones, and 1910, W. A. Griest.

Through all its years the congregation prospered and grew in numbers. The frame structure was remodelled and enlarged twice, but finally the congregation outgrew it and the building of the new church was the result.

Builders of Edifice.

The building committee in general charge of the erection of the new edifice consists of Dr. William Enslen, Loren Springer, Crawford Griswold and Rev. W. A. Griest, the pastor. They gave it their time and best work from the start to finish. Especially active was the chairman of the committee, Dr. Enslen. To him in a large measure is due the first steps that were taken. He was zealous in advocacy of a new church and he impressed his opinions so strongly upon the membership that finally its

AGGIE GRANT IS A GOOD TEACHER

Has Developed Men Who Are Now Regarded as Good Managers.

HE BOOSTS ANDERSON

Terre Haute, Ind., Feb. 10.—Aggie Grant, developer of managers.

This, or some other title with the same meaning, should be handed to the boss of the Terre-irs. Few Terre Haute fans realize that when the first man up on the opening day of the Central season, cracks out the first safe hit, four men, once under direction of Grant, will be trotting around in Central managerial duds.

Yet it's true and Grant realized it all at once yesterday afternoon when he began to discuss "Goat" Anderson, the new boss of the Stogies.

Here is the record:

Harry Atndt, manager of the South Bend club, played with Grant when the latter was manager of the old Green Stockings in South Bend eleven years ago.

Anderson was on the South Bend Central league club in 1903 when Aggie was manager.

Ed Smith, manager of Grand Rapids, was pitcher on the Broncho team in 1909 at the time Aggie directed the destiny of the club.

Frank Shaughnessy, manager at Fort Wayne, played in the outfield in 1904, another year when Grant was boss of the bronchos.

All of which is not a bad record for the ability of Grant to pick a winner two or three times out of a few. And Aggie is proud of it. The chesty little boss, who is not as chesty as he looks, glories in the success that has come to the men whom he taught the game.

"Varnell is lucky to get a man like Frank Shaughnessy," said the Terre-ir leader. "He is a ball player through and through and I know from personal experience that you can depend on him every time. And then there is Harry Arndt. Harry and I played on the old Green Stockings, an independent club, at South Bend, before the Central league was organized. He is a good man and I predict that before the season is half over, he will be recognized as one of the most successful managers in the Central. As for Ed Smith, I want to say he was the most conscientious ball player I was ever associated with."

"Old 'Goat' Anderson," he soliloquized, "Why, if that boy has the ability to enthuse his men with the same fighting spirit he has himself, Wheeling will have the scrappiest club in the Central or any other league. Anderson is in a class all by himself in some departments of the game and the Stogies have made a ten strike by putting him at the helm. He is one of the best run getters that ever went out of the Central league and the fans can prepare to see some real ball playing out of that bunch from West Virginia."

SAMPLE TO HAVE HOME IN LEAGUE

May Be Signed by Wheeling as Utility Man for the Outfit.

SCHWARZ SIGNS UP

Wheeling, W. Va., Feb. 10.—Guy Sample, one of the best utility men in the Central league, not only on account of his playing ability, but from his thorough knowledge of the game and aptness for training youngsters, may become a member of the local club. The owners have written him asking terms and if he will play for what the management regards as a fair salary, he is likely to be taken on.

In the general utility role he would be very useful as he can play any place on the diamond and play the position acceptably. He will probably be used to help out on the catching end if he comes here, and the new owners could hardly get a better man for the place.

And despite the fact that he was allowed to go free at the end of the year, he hit .240 in thirty-five games with Dayton last season. When Manager Punch Knoll gathered him in at the close of the season to strengthen his team, weakened by injuries, he pulled many a game out of the fire.

One new name has been added to the list of signed men on the Stogie roster, according to Owner Robinson. Gus E. Schwarz, a young outfielder, forwarded his contract.

For a short time toward the close of last season, Schwarz had a try-out with the Roanoke club in the Virginia league, but most of his work has been done with the semi-professional teams around Newark. "Kid" Welsher, who also lives in Newark, has written in to the local management recommending Gus very highly. He states that he is some sweet hitter and has an arm that is a bird.

Schwarz was signed for Wheeling by O'Riley, of Louisville, who says that he will stake his reputation that the young outfielder will make good. O'Riley has four other Stogie contracts that he is trying to place with fast young men over east. The Register in previous issues has mentioned Kelly, a catcher; Weiss, a pitcher, and Fogarty, an outfielder, all of whom were with the fast Asbury park semi-pro team last year.

O'Riley states that Weiss and Kelly, as well as a third baseman, the fourth man that he intends to land, will be sold or drafted at the close of the season from the club that gets them. He is not so enthusiastic about Fogarty, but states that he is a clever man. The local management is not willing to give out the name of third baseman, since two clubs in the Connecticut league are also after him.

RARE OLD PORTRAIT OF A FAMOUS AMERICAN TROTTING HORSE

DUTCHMAN, HIRAM WOODRUFF UP.

One of the interesting pictures to be hung in the exhibition of turf relics at the Sportsman's dinner in New York is a painting of Dutchman, loaned by "Ed" L. Wenrick. The mellow, richly colored canvas is perhaps the earliest portrait of an American trotting horse of celebrity that has yet come to light. Mr. Wenrick obtained it from Thomas Worth, the veteran artist whose caricature of men and horses made him famous half a century ago. Mr. Worth says it hung in the Lake House, a widely known resort for sportsmen, at Islip, L. I., long before the Civil War. It portrays the renowned old time trotter with Hiram Woodruff on his back in the memorable performance against time, which still stands as the best on record at three miles. It was on August 1, 1839, that Dutchman trotted in 7:32½ over the Bacon course, in the outskirts of what is now Hoboken, N. J.

TURNED BACK TOO OFTEN

Frequently there arises in baseball a case where the rules for drafting, selling and returning ball players to and from the majors results in an injustice to the athlete.

Del Drake, Detroit outfielder and former O.-P. leaguer, has been sent to Providence by Magnate Frank Navin. Several years ago the Tigers acquired title to Drake. At that time they owned Davy Jones, McIntyre, Cobb and Crawford, all outfielders of excellence. There was no place for Drake, so he was taken south each spring and relegated to the minors again when the championship season commenced.

Of course, other clubs in the league had to waive on his services, but this was a mere formality. Each club had so many surplus men that if any one owner commenced holding up somebody else's players he soon found himself tied up with more talent than he could afford to pay. So Drake was sent back each year.

Last year Drake got his chance when Davy Jones slipped. He hit .279 in 95 games and stole 20 bases. But he was around 30 years of age, and his hair had commenced turning gray. His arm no longer possessed the strength of a half dozen years ago, and he went back to the minors, landing with Providence this time.

Had he been fortunate enough to have joined a club needing outfielders when he first came into the league, it is likely that Drake would have had an honorable career in the majors. As it was he was shunted back and forth during the period of his greatest usefulness. His case is one of the instances where the rules of organized baseball prevent a player advancing in his profession as provided in the opening paragraphs of the national agreement.

SPORTLETS

Denton T. Young has signed his twenty-second contract to play ball. He is with the Boston Nationals.

What is fame anyhow? Our own Willie Robertson has signed his contract and the Indianapolis papers come out and call him George.

Joe Tinker is having a great week of it in Denver. He is getting more press notices than any other actor in the city and is also delivering the goods at the playhouse.

Christy Mathewson says that the pitchers of the present are in danger because of too little work, while the old-time pitchers used to suffer from too much work.

King Kelly, who announced his retirement from baseball at the close of last season, will be with Guy Dickey at Aurora, Ill., this year. He was formerly a member of the Fort Wayne catching staff.

Frank Isbell says that he is not afraid of getting shot if he goes anywhere near Pueblo, but just the same he is not going to take any of those foolish chances. The Pueblo fans are pretty sore because the club was sold back to Wichita.

No news from Chance about the trading of Brown means that the Cub's leader is not favorably inclined. Evidently Chance believes that he will be able to round up the veteran when he gets a chance to talk it over with him.

Has anyone uncovered the idea of naming the twenty greatest umpires? No one would care to read about them perhaps, but there have been many brave men that risked their lives on the ball field at that.

Pitcher Orval Overall says the seven long years that he put in playing big league baseball were wasted with the lone exception that he met his wife and married her during that time. Orrie knows how to make himself look good at home.

Through Scout Dick Kinsella, the St. Louis Cardinals have offered to buy Pitcher "Miner" Brown from the Cubs for $22,500. Kinsella says his club will pay as much for the three-fingered wonder as the Pirates paid for Marty O'Toole. He said that he would see President Murphy of the Cubs and ask whether he was sincere in his efforts to dispose of Brown, and whether a cash payment would get the services of the star twirler.

STORIES FROM HOT STOVE CIRCUIT

Harken to this wild and woolly baseball yarn, ye fans, hot off the bat. Clark Griffith, the Washington manager, tells the story and vouches for its truthfulness. The scene was at Butte, back in the '90s, and the story resulted from a baseball game between Missoula and Butte at the latter town. There was a lot of gamblers in Butte who wanted to back the team, so about $5,000 was bet on the game, in which Griffith was to pitch for Missoula. Everything went along nicely for a while, with a monster crowd on hand hallowing for everything it was worth for Butte to win.

In the ninth inning Missoula was leading by one run, but after two were out Butte got a man on third and then the catcher let the ball get away from him. It rolled a short distance, but when the catcher went to retrieve it one bug leaned over the stand with a six-shooter in his hand. "Touch that ball and you are dead," he shouted, and the catcher stood stock still in his tracks. Griff said that all the players were scared stiff while the tying run scored, but Missoula finally won out in the tenth by a 5 to 4 score.

Every fan has heard the old gibe, "You can't hit a barn door," shouted at a pitcher when he had lost control.

Joe Hovlik, the Bohemian twirler who bent a few over the plate for the White Sox last season, heard it before he tried to become a pitcher. When he first found he could fling the pill with some speed he concluded he would learn to hit a barn door before he ventured out into baseball society.

Joe lived on a farm. On the farm there was a large barn and the barn had a big door. His father had paid real money to have that barn painted, but Joe started to knock the paint off the barn door with baseballs. He used up a lot of baseballs, but he got so he never missed the door.

After a time he got some Rubes to catch him. He smashed their hands up and had to go back to the door. Joe is no wonder on control now, but he'll take any of them on for a side bet when it comes to shooting at the old barn door.

A practical joker called Robert Fitzsimmons on the phone while the Cornishman was attending the recent meeting of the United States baseball league at the Hotel Imperial in New York, and this conversation ensued:

"Mr. Fitzsimmons, are you interested in the new league?"

"I'm looking things over."

"Will you locate a club at your home in New Jersey?"

"Why, nobody lives in the town but me. Who are you?"

"I'm a star ball player and I want to sign with you for $10,000 a year."

"I don't want you at that figure."

"Why, you freckled face, if you know as little about baseball as you did about fighting you'll be a frost."

"I'd like to have you here!" roared the former champion of the world as he gripped the receiver and turned purple. "I'd make you think I knew something about baseball."

And Ruby Robert still is trying to find out the name of the man who talked with him. Maybe John McGraw can throw some light on the subject, it is said. McGraw always enjoys a good laugh.

Fred Clarke, the hustling little manager of the Pittsburg Pirates, tells a funny one on one of the many ambitious youngsters who think they are destined to be great ball players and worry all major league managers for a trial.

"One day last fall," said Clarke, "a fellow came out to Forbes field and said he wanted a trial. He said: 'My friends tell me that I am a great ball player and and that I will make a good outfielder for you.' I told him to get on a uniform and chase out to right field.

"He came out and I was almost dumfounded when I saw that he wore a kid glove on his left hand. Hans Wagner hit up a few high ones to him and he looked like a whirling dervish out there, trying to judge the sky-ticklers.

"Finally he came in, and, pulling off his kid glove, said he was going back to his friends and inform them that they were wrong. He not only proved that he was not an outfielder, he admitted it."

GRAND PLAYER MAKES GOOD SCOUT

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 10.—Bobby Lowe's fame as a scout is totally eclipsed by his great record as a player. Fans of a generation or so ago who saw him in his prime say that he was one of the greatest infielders who ever played the game. Bob was fortunate in being allied with the famous old Boston club of the National league in the days when the pennant floated over the Hub every year.

Herman Long at short and Bobby Lowe at second made up a pair of defensive men whose equal seldom has been seen on the ball field. Each was a star in his position and they worked together like the cogs of a machine. Batsmen were wont to complain that it was impossible to hit a ground ball through them, and that they never made a wild throw or a "boot."

In 1900 he signed to do scout duty for the Tigers and he has been with the club in that capacity ever since.

It has been said of Bob Lowe that he never knew what a sore arm was. He could go south for spring training, get off the train and throw a base ball a mile the first time he handled it. Even now, his "wing" is one that many young infielders might covet.

"Two broken noses, or the same nose broken twice, put me out of baseball," said Mr. Lowe, in discussing why he quit the game. "Rube Waddell got me the first time, hitting me in the face with a pitched ball at Philadelphia one day. The next time, I got it from a grounder that took a bad hop out in Grand Rapids. I thought that I would quit the game before any more of my features got mussed up, and so I declined to go out in the season of 1909."

Lowe made a world's record with the bat, while with Boston, getting four home runs and a single in one game off Pitcher Chamberlain, of Cincinnati, one Memorial day. Two of the homers were made in the same inning. This total of seventeen bases was tied later by Ed Delahanty, who got the same number of sacks.

Among the men whom Lowe has recommended to the Tigers are Gainer, Drake, Tutweiler, Cruise, Pernoll, Flick, Hannah Remneas, and Cree and Warhop, of the New York Americans, Detroit letting these two latter get away.

FAMILY'S WORST ENEMY DIVORCE

Professor Says Finally They Will Break Up More Than Death.

A GRAVE PREDICTION

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 10.—That more families will in a few generations be broken up by divorce than by death unless the present rate of divorce increase is stopped, is the prediction of Francis G. Peabody, professor of Christian morals at Harvard, who has gathered volumes of statistics on this subject and has studied works in French, German and English, besides writing many treatises on the divorce question.

Prof. Peabody believes that the family had its origin away back in the primeval era, after other forms of social grouping had been tried and had been found inferior to the family as a social group. The problem now confronting the world, he thinks, is whether the family is proving itself still to be the most efficient kind of a social group, and also whether it is able to withstand the adverse conditions in which it now exists.

"One thing is certain," says Prof Peabody, "the family is rapidly becoming disorganized and disintegrated. This break-up means what may be termed a reversion of type, a going back to conditions of primitive civilization. The break-up of the family is seen everywhere. Divorces are being granted at an ever-increasing rate. It may be computed that if the present ratio of increase in population and separation is maintained the number of separations of marriage by death would at the end of the twentieth century be less than the number of separations by divorce.

"The issue at stake in consideration of domestic integrity is between two theories of the marriage tie—the conception of it as a temporary contract involving the interests of those who are known as the persons concerned, and the conception of it as a social institution involving the fabric of social order. The family is but one element in a general struggle for existence of two types of civilization—one dominated by an interest in the development of the individual, the other characterized by a concern for social order.

"If the individual is the end for which social life exists, if it is the 'parties concerned' alone who are to be considered in the case of a marriage, then the legislation of self-interest, which takes account of nothing more than the happiness or even the whims of individuals, will be set to make and break this contract.

"If, on the other hand, marriage is an elementary expression of organic social life, a witness of that social continuity which is coming to be recognized in the church, the industrial order and the state, then the integrity of the family, as the more elementary group of social life, will be reverently guarded and stringently secured.

An Evolution.

"The family is a social group which in its present form is by no means an original and outright gift to the human race, but it is the product of a vast world process of social evolution, through which various types of domestic unity have in turn been selected and tested until at last the fittest has survived. In the social life of ancient Rome and in many indications of social conditions in ancient Israel it was observed that the family was the unit from which national coherence was derived, and that this unity was perpetuated through the supremacy of the oldest male. Thus the so-called 'patriarchal theory' seemed the key of the primitive history of the family. Through the expansion of the family group there appeared to be evolved the clan, the tribe and the nation. And the authority of the father became in turn that of the chief, the ruler and the king.

"The family is the unit of civilization, but it is also true that this unit has had its own evolution, so that the family is not only a cause of modern society but is in turn an effective ancient society.

Coherence and Continuity.

"Human relationships were probably, even under the rudest conditions, not the relations of a herd, but as in the case of most of the higher mammals, a relation of pairing animals, so that even in the most primitive society, either through force of jealousy, or common possessions, or care of the children, or necessities of self defense, a more or less permanently associated group-life was maintained. From what we know of the jealousy of all male quadrupeds, Darwin says, we may conclude that any other condition in a state of nature is to be regarded as extremely improbable.

"What was it then that gave to this pairing group its original coherence and continuity? The young of most higher animals, according to John Fiske, are at birth able to care for themselves, while the human infant must be cared for through months of helplessness. This prolongation of infancy brings with it the genesis of society. It bridges the gulf which seems to divide the human from the brute world.

"Prophesied through monogamy may be by the evolution of the domestic group, the family as we understand it with its mutual sacrifices, its personal self-surrender, its discovery of the highest self in the social group, appears to be an end toward which the movement of social evolution has been for ages tending.

"The most uncompromising and undisguised attack upon the modern family is the attack of the modern Socialists. It would be by no means just to say that the encouragement of domestic instability is an essential part of the Socialist programme. Many strenuous advocates of common industrial ownership shrink from the thought of a co-operative commonwealth in which the family, as we know it, would be destroyed.

"To those who would substitute common ownership for individual liberty the institution of the family presents one of the most persistent obstacles. Domestic unity is inconsistent with an absolute social unity vested in the state. The thrift, the need of management and the centralized interest of the isolated home tend to detach those who are devoted to such homes from complete devotion to the Socialist ideal.

"The family has had its primitive origin, its changeful phases, its gradual growth. It is now, according to many Socialist philosophers, to have its further period of transition and social decline. It has been called a historical phenomenon which has been developed in course of time, and in time will vanish.

The Economic Unit.

"What originally consolidated the domestic group was the desire to transmit property. The family was an economic unit, and such it still remains. It is an instrument of the capitalistic class. Indeed, without such private property the unity of the family can hardly exist. How can we speak of the 'sanctity of the home' when the man and his wife have no home and no private possessions, and both work all day in the mill or on the street?

"Owing to industrial life the importance of the family is already enormously lessened. Once every form of industry went on within the family circle, but as the methods of the great industry are substituted for work done in the home, the economic usefulness of the family is practically outgrown. Women are no longer the slaves of domestic service. They can lead their own lives and earn their own bread. Machinery has become their savior.

"Thus, with the coming of the social state, family unity will be for a higher end. The wife, being no longer doomed to household drudgery, will have the greater blessing of economic equality. Children will be cared for by the community, under healthful and uniform conditions and we shall arrive at what has been called the happy time when continuity of society no longer depends upon the private nursery.

"Mothers and childless women will have separate consideration. The evolution of the family will have proceeded from simplicity to simplicity. Its history will have been a spiral progress, beginning in the freedom of savagery and ending in the freedom of socialism.

Gospel of Discontent.

"It is difficult for one who is unfamiliar with the Socialist propaganda to believe that these speculations concerning evolution can have had serious influence upon the lives of the working people to whom socialism has become a practical creed, but the fact is that in popularized and often in grosser form this protest against family exclusiveness has become a positive part of the German gospel of discontent.

"The German handworker is constantly reminded that his economic welfare is to be found in a complete break with that social order of which capitalism, religion and family unity are the bulwarks, and his mind is constantly fed by the literature of domestic revolt.

Still More Insidious.

"Still more insidious is this same doctrine as it is expounded in English as well as in German literature, addressed not to working people, but to lightminded and self-indulgent readers of the prosperous classes. The modern novel appears in find no theme more lucrative than that of the failure of marriage, and often discusses in more or less undisguised language the next steps which may be proposed in domestic evolution.

"In short, it has become clear, not only that a transformation of economic conditions is likely to bring with it a radical change in domestic relations, but that, on the other hand, until a new set of ideas about family life are made thoroughly familiar the greatest obstruction to radical economic change will remain unremoved.

"It is not inconceivable that the judgment of history on the program of economic socialism may be determined, not so much by the main issue for which the program appears to stand as by its effect upon the integrity of the family."

The Present Pastor.

It was near to one of the greatest battlefields of the war of the rebellion—Gettysburg, Pa.—that the present pastor of Simpson church, Rev. W. A. Griest, was born—long after that memorable event, however—June 5, 1873. He did not remain in Pennsylvania very many years. In his early boyhood years, with his parents, he moved to Indiana, finishing his public school education at Pennville in 1887.

Then he attended college at Beloit, Wis., afterwards at Valparaiso, where he graduated in 1893. He then attended the School of Elocution and Oratory at Cleveland, graduating in 1895 with the M. A. degree. Then going to the Temple college at Philadelphia he pursued a course in Hebrew and was awarded the degree of Bachelor of Divinity. He was licensed to preach the gospel in December of 1894, and, after teaching for a year in Taylor university at Upland, Ind., he entered the North Indiana M. E. conference.

This was in 1895. Since then Rev. Mr. Griest has been continuously in the active ministry. Among the charges which he has filled have been ones at Muncie, Bethel, Anderson and Pendleton. In two of these places—at Bethel and Muncie—he built new churches. It was from Pendleton that he came to the Simpson church here. That was two years ago this spring.

He came here with the reputation of a church builder and it was not long after he assumed his present pastorate that the new church movement took shape. The carrying of it to a successful completion is in a large measure due to his activity and superb management, aided by the members of his congregation, who throughout the church building campaign have been loyal to him in it.

When he came here the Simpson church had 280 members. It now has about 400. He has taken 142 into the church during his pastorate. The Sunday school has doubled its enrollment and attendance and all the departments of the church are in a splendid condition.

In the North Indiana conference Rev. Mr. Griest holds a leading place. He has been its assistant secretary for ten years. Among the pastors of the conference there are none more able. He is a strong pulpit speaker and active and zealous in church work. This has certainly been his record during his two years' pastorate in Fort Wayne.

MISS HELEN TAYLOR

Much mystery surrounds the death of Helen Taylor, also known as Grace Walker and Helen Willis, who was killed in her apartments in West Seventy-seventh street, New York city, when an infernal machine exploded in her hand less than a minute after she had accepted a neatly tied package from a messenger who rang the door-bell.

So deadly was the shower of steel fragments which struck her body with terrific force that she did not live long enough to utter a word that might have aided in a clearing of the mystery, which Inspector Hughes, of the Detective Bureau, regards as one without a parallel in his observation.

Charles M. Dickinson, who was in her apartment at the time of the explosion, has been arrested on a technical charge of homicide.

Miss Edna Lamarre, who shared the apartments with Miss Taylor, who left the house a few minutes before the package arrived, was also arrested as a witness.

HOUSEWIVES OF JERSEY TOWN ARE GOING TO LOWER COST OF FOOD

J. NORMAN LYNE
THE MEMBERS OF THE LEAGUE ARE STUDYING HOW TO MARKET INTELLIGENTLY.

Butter, eggs and vegetables are to play an important part in levelling the social ranks of Summit, N. J. Over simple but necessary farm products it is expected that the exclusive women residents of that suburb will be able to establish uniform market prices and a friendly relation with others.

At a meeting of two hundred of the residents it was learned yesterday that plans were made to effect a reduction of prices in Summit. The only way to accomplish this change, they said, was to stop letting the servants and butcher boys do their marketing and to open a public market to which the farmers could bring their fruits, vegetables and other products. The open market place idea is to be investigated, and a report will be made on its practicability.

It was Mrs. Henry B. Twombly, president of the Town Improvement Association, under whose auspices the meeting was held, who pointed out to the members the immediate need for concerted action on the part of Summit housewives. A few weeks ago somebody told her that Summit was the second costliest place near New York, and since then she has been looking into local prices.

For two weeks twelve members of the association have been making official lists of local prices and comparing them with prices in New York and in other suburbs.

Mrs. Twombly said yesterday that they had decided that placing Summit second on the list of expensive living places was a little unfair, but that the cost of living there was unusually high and that it was due, somewhat to the housewives. Mrs. Julian Heath, organizer and president of the Housewives' League of New York, told the Summit association about the new scheme of marketing advocated by the league. The Summit association voted to take up the work of the Housewives' League and each member was asked to have a league button to show her butcher and her grocer that she was on her guard as to weights, measures and prices.

"I wish we might all be plebeian enough to do our own marketing," Mrs. Twombly said. "Social cliques do exist here in Summit, as we all know, but if we had an open market place these social barriers would be broken down and the cliques would disappear. Then all the housewives in Summit could meet in the square to market and decrease their household expenditures, provide better food, perhaps, and have as good a time as the men have when they go to town together on the morning trains. We women could get out on the street corner and hold social meetings."

"We still have flies on our baker's bread in the summer," admitted the association's president. "And the baker's boy fetches us our loaves of bread unwrapped, carrying them in his hands which have not been washed since he cleaned the stable and curried the horse. So we may as well organize a campaign for cleanliness while we are about it."

BENEATH BRICK AND MORTAR

Three Pennsylvania Employes Caught Under Falling Wall.

LECTURES ON THE SUPERHEATERS

W. A. Buckbee Will Talk to Railroaders on Interesting Subject.

An accident which might have been a serious affair was the dropping of a mass of angle irons and brick upon three employes of the Pennsylvania at the power station east of Lafayette street, at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. One of the furnaces was to receive a new lining of firebrick and with this end in view the old brick were being removed. The steel supports had been removed and while General Foreman P. J. Sweeney and Engineer George Hautch were inspecting the work, the "cave in" occurred. Mr. Sweeney received a cut on the top of the head from a brick which landed there and Engineer Hautch sustained a cut over the eyes and another on top of the head by being struck by one of the angle irons. F. Luk, a laborer, sustained more severe injuries, though Dr. Stemen says that he does not think they are serious. He was standing in a position so as to receive the greater part of the falling brick on his head and shoulders and in addition to a bad cut in the scalp, he sustained sprains and bruises about the neck and shoulders. None of the injured were sent to the hospital and Mr. Sweeney was able to resume work after his wound had been dressed.

WILL GO INTO BUSINESS.

Two Pennsylvania Employes Buy Anderson Grocery.

D. O. Shuster and H. C. G. Meyer have purchased the stock of goods and the good will of the Peter Anderson grocery at the corner of East Washington and Harmer streets and next week will commence doing business there under the firm name of Meyers & Shuster. Mr. Anderson, who has conducted the business three or four years, will retire from business entirely. The new proprietors of the grocery are well known Pennsylvania clerks, having been employed there a number of years. Mr. Meyers will retain his position in the shop clerk's office, but today ends Mr. Shuster's services there, for Monday he takes charge of the grocery. Mr. Shuster is a son of Henry Shuster, the foreman of shop carpenters. The young man began work as a messenger in Master Mechanic Fitzpatrick's office in May, 1904, and by strict attention to business and exceptional qualifications was soon promoted. He now retires from the position with Shop Clerk J. H. Hobrock which was held a number of years by James H. Fry, now the state oil inspector.

ANOTHER BIG OUTPUT.

Pennsylvania Erecting Shop Repairs Seventeen Engines.

The output of engines from the Pennsylvania erecting shop was again heavy this week, seventeen locomotives having received heavy repairs and put into service on the road. They were Nos. 7043, 7432, 7446, 7481, 7510, 7956, 9008, 9072, 9077, 9082, 9263, 9366, 9376, 9378, 9397, 9950 and 9999. Next week will probably be just as heavy, for business on the road is good and engines are badly needed.

MR. BUCKBEE WILL TALK.

Consents to Lecture on Locomotive Superheaters.

As intimated yesterday by The Sentinel would be the case, W. A. Buckbee has consented to deliver a lecture on "Locomotive Superheaters" in Fort Wayne. The lecture will be given at the Railroad Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock Monday evening and an invitation to all engineers, firemen, round house men, shopmen and others interested in the subject is extended. In the opinion of men informed on the subject the superheater will in time be a feature in the construction of all locomotives. Seven of this kind of locomotive are already in service on the Western division of the Pennsylvania and classes have been held every afternoon this week to instruct engineers concerning the new feature. Mr. Buckbee represents the Locomotive Superheater Company of North America, with headquarters in New York, and his mission here is in the interest of the company and to disseminate knowledge about the superheater.

ENGINE IN TURNTABLE PIT.

Big Pennsylvania Freighter Does Runaway Stunt.

When the Pennsylvania hostler brought engine No. 7933 down from the coal docks and stopped it at the entrance to the round house, with the reverse lever on the "forward motion," he failed to close the throttle properly and when he went into the oil house with the cans, the locomotive started up on its own account and plunged into the turntable pit and when Wreck Boss Ebner and crew arrived there it rested with its nose on the cement floor of the pit and the rear end up on the wall. The engine was not badly damaged, but the center plate of the turntable was broken, putting it out of commission for several hours, and making it impossible to get engines in or out of the round house. A derailed car on the approach to the east car shop turntable also made it impossible to turn engine there for a short time and for awhile there was some confusion in the engine dispatching department.

TAKES UP FIRST ORDER.

Audiffren Refrigerating Company Begins Work in Earnest.

Some machinery for the manufacture of ice making machines has been installed and work upon the first order for a number of the machines has commenced. The Fort Wayne Electric works has the contract for building the machines and as rapidly as they are built they will be sent to H. W. Johns-Manduille company, of New York, the selling agency, who will send them out to purchasers in all parts of the country. The ice making machinery will be built in the new factory building on Broadway as soon as it is finished and equipped, one of the floors being designed for that purpose. It is expected to employ a big force of men in the manufacture of ice machines next summer.

ANOTHER EXPRESS MERGER.

Express circles in Fort Wayne are greatly interested in the rumor that the Wells-Fargo company may take over the United States Express company. A dispatch sent out from New York yesterday said that the action of the board of directors of the United States company indicated that there would be an early merger with the Wells-Fargo company. At the board meeting the Harriman interests were strengthened by the election of four of the seven members, giving the Harriman estate quite as dominant control of the United States company as it has of the Wells-Fargo. The men elected are C. C. Tegelhoff, for years confidential secretary of the late E. H. Harriman; Joseph W. Harriman, vice president of the Harriman National bank and nephew of the great railroad financier; A. G. Hackstaff, vice president of the Illinois Central railroad, and William J. Axcell, of the B. & O. railroad. One of the newly elected directors said that the United States Express company would be absorbed by the Wells-Fargo company in the near future.

PENNSY MAY BUY THE WABASH.

According to the Columbia City Commercial-Mail there is considerable gossip in that city concerning rumors that the Pennsylvania is considering the advisability of buying the Butler-Detroit part of the Wabash system. The Commercial-Mail says: "Since the Wabash railway system has gone into the hands of receivers, it is the opinion of some of the knowing ones in railroad circles that the Pennsylvania company, owners of the Vandalia system, will purchase the portions of the Wabash system connecting from Butler to Detroit and Toledo to Fort Wayne, and thus will the through Pennsylvania lines from Detroit and Toledo be established with Columbia City as the central division point. Whether the Pennsylvania builds or buys the connecting link to Detroit and Toledo, matters not with Columbia City. What we want is to occupy the position of the central division point right here at Columbia City, and we probably will."

SEVERAL MEN INJURED.

There were several accidents at the Pennsylvania shops yesterday. J. A. Henry, a truck builder, had an ankle sprained; E. R. W. Hambrock, a cab builder, was injured in a fall; J. E. English, of the storehouse, air brake department, had his left wrist punctured by a nail, the wound being about one-half inch deep and very painful, and R. O. Fahlsing had his back sprained by slipping while carrying some flues in the flue shop. The company's surgeon attended all these men.

ARE FIREMEN NOW.

C. P. Meehan and O. E. Stahl have been promoted from callers of engine crews for the Pennsylvania to firemen in the yards. They are ambitious and honest young men and will in time be piloting some of the fast trains over the division. T. Jackson and R. M. Gatschell have been employed as messengers in place of the two men promoted.

MR. SCOTT COMING TOMORROW.

Guy Scott, who soon takes up the duties of division engineer of the Pennsylvania Western division, will be here tomorrow for a visit with the men who will hereafter be associated with him in railway work. This will be Mr. Scott's first visit here since he received the appointment.

OUT OF THE DIRECTORATE.

Howard Gould is no longer a director of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad. He resigned yesterday and was immediately succeeded by E. L. Brown, the newly elected vice president. President Bush has called F. Shepard to the D. & R. G. as his assistant. Sheppard was formerly with the Santa Fe.

GONE TO THE HOSPITAL.

J. Cal. McEvoy, assistant cashier of the Pennsylvania, went to St. Rochus hospital last night, suffering severely from tonsilitis. His condition is not regarded as serious and Mr. McEvoy will probably be attending at the window of the cashier's office again in a few days.

FIRST TIME AT SHOW.

Joseph Oswald, the teamster at the Bass foundry and for many years a resident of Fort Wayne, will see a theatrical performance tonight for the first time in his life. He has secured tickets for "Are You a Mason?" and will apply early for admission to the Majestic.

MASTER CAR BUILDERS' MEETING.

Bulletins announcing that the annual meeting of the Master Car Builders' association will be held in Atlantic City June 12, 13 and 14, and that the Master Mechanics' association will hold its convention at the same place June 17, 18 and 19.

Y. M. C. A. BOARD MEETING.

The business meeting of the managers of the Railroad Y. M. C. A. will have its first monthly meeting for 1912 at the association rooms Monday evening. Because of the absence of members of the board, no meeting was held last month.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

The Wabash shops today turned out engine 2080, which received general repairs.

H. P. Anderson, a draughtsman in the Wabash motive power office at Springfield, is here today.

N. Beneff and W. C. Bruns, blacksmith's helpers, took employment in the Pennsylvania shops this morning.

Engineers E. A. Jornod and J. D. Trimble and Fireman T. R. Radey, of the Pennsylvania, are sick and off duty.

Conductor Charles Cole has recovered from an illness and resumed work on the L. E. & W. road. He had a run between this city and Muncie.

J. J. A. Snook, a construction man for the Fort Wayne Electric works, has resumed that duty, after a six weeks' visit at his old home in England.

Theodore Dobler, tool room clerk at the Pennsylvania round house, is out after a week's confinement with a bad cold. He will probably be able to report for duty next Monday.

The G. R. & I. paymaster will be in Fort Wayne Friday, February 16. The amount of the distribution will be unusually large because of the very busy times on the road during the month of January.

Charles Oxley, formerly of the Fort Wayne rolling mills, and manager of the baseball team there, is at present in Los Angeles, Cal. He is engaged with a brother-in-law in the contracting business.

The Muncie Star, one of the "newsiest" papers on The Sentinel's exchange list, has inaugurated a new department. Beginning yesterday the Star has a railway column in which "all the news of that character will be found."

J. J. McLaughlin, a machinist at the Wabash shops, left yesterday for Peru, where he will take treatment in the company's hospital. Mr. McLaughlin has been suffering from a severe cold and stomach trouble for some time.

The dispatches from Toledo say that on account of the very cold weather over 100,000 tons of coal consigned to dealers and industrial concerns in Detroit and other cities in Michigan are held up in Toledo and representatives of the consignees are in that city in the effort to get the fuel started towards their respective cities.

Frank Shaffer, foreman of the wheel department of the Pennsylvania machine shop, is sick, and Byron Thomas is looking after the department in his place. Other shopmen who are sick are H. Preleman, Harry Tieman, Frank Mason, Charles Stoll, A. J. Smith and R. E. Neireiter. Charles Petgen, who had been sick, reported for work this morning.

Astounding Claims Made for Vitosophy

New System of Learning, Which Its Author Claims Banishes Divorce, Cures Poverty and Removes Disease.

FREE LECTURES AT ELKS' TEMPLE AUDITORIUM COMMENCING SUNDAY NIGHT.

If the claims made by Dr. William Windsor, of Boston, Mass., can be substantiated, Fort Wayne is on the eve of a moral and financial upheaval which will rebound to the benefit of many of the citizens during the coming week. All of which arise from the fact that Doctor Windsor is announced to give three free lectures at the Elks' Temple auditorium commencing Sunday night with a lecture on "Matrimony," the most absorbing topic in human interest, followed by others scarcely less important on "How to Become Rich" and "How to Be Healthy."

Dr. Windsor is not a physician, as might be inferred from his title. He has no medicine to prescribe, sell or advertise. He is a phrenologist, a student of human nature and a lawyer and orator of international reputation. He is president of the Boston College of Vitosophy, and has received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from two universities in recognition of his services benefiting the human race.

Dr. Wm. Windsor.

He is a member of the bar of the United States supreme court and for his work as a criminologist received from the court of appeals of Texas the highest compliment ever paid to a practicing lawyer by a court of last resort.

In his lectures at the Elks' Temple auditorium Dr. Windsor will expound the new system of learning, entitled "Vitosophy," of which he is the originator, which inculcates the highest form of morality and proves that it is unnecessary to be either poor, sick or unhappy.

According to the new system of Vitosophy as perfected by Dr. Windsor, the phrenological developments of each person should be determined by acurate measurements with the phrenometer, which discloses the actual formation of the cranium, from which the localization of brain power can be accurately deduced, the talents he will manifest, the business he should follow, besides many other facts of the greatest importance in education and development.

Fortunes Made by Following Vitosophical Principles.

In his lecture Tuesday night Dr. Windsor will give the names and addresses of many persons who have become independently wealthy by following his principles. Dr. Windsor will have parlors and consultation room at the Anthony hotel during his stay in Fort Wayne, and many may be consulted between the hours of 10 a. m. and 7 p. m.

The city will require

First. That your company give the city street rights at Harrison street to connect with those already secured from the Wabash company, so as to make said streets continuous.

(a) That your company, during the year 1912, elevate your tracks at Union and College streets, and at Harrison street not later than 1913, and at the time the Wabash company elevates its tracks at that point, in accordance with its agreement on file with the city.

(b) That your company build its passenger station on Baker street according to the plans heretofore submitted to the city; said building to be commenced not later than April 1, 1912.

(c) That your company agree not to build across Clinton street before January 1, 1915; it being understood that said agreement shall not constitute a waiver of any of the rights of the city, at said Clinton street, or as an abridgment, or bar of the right of said city to continue its proceeding and litigation for the opening of said street across your right of way.

(d) That your company also cooperate with the city in the elevation of the tracks east of Calhoun street, whenever appropriate legal action is taken by the city.

(e) That your company, as heretofore agreed, release the city from the payment of $2,000, which the city in a certain contract in 1909, agreed to pay for additional width at Calhoun street and Broadway.

(f) That your company do the incidental things in connection with the work west of Calhoun street, such as the widening of Baker street, etc., all as tentatively agreed upon by the city and your company in past negotiations.

That the position of the city may be definitely understood we wish to advise you that it is intended, whether this proposition is accepted or not, to do the following things:

First. To adopt, without delay, a resolution for the elevation of your tracks at Walton avenue, providing for the doing of the work during the year 1912 or 1913; also a resolution extending Garden street over your right of way, and to later adopt an assessment roll for the opening of said street, showing the benefits and damages equal.

(a) That the city will continue the proceedings for the elevation of the tracks at College and Union streets.

Respectfully yours,

HEADS OF DEPARTMENTS AT ELECTRIC WORKS SIXTEEN YEARS AGO.

The above is a reproduction of a picture found beneath a mound of old papers in the shipping department of the Fort Wayne Electric works yesterday by John F. Keiss, the head of that department. The group represents the foremen of the various departments at the time the photograph was taken, in 1896, sixteen years ago, when the working force of the plant was not more than one-half its present number. The personnel of the people represented in the picture is as follows: Lower row, reading from left to right: John F. Keiss, shipping department; Louis Freyer, armature winding department; William Donnel, polishing department; William Brizolarri, switchboard department; Fred Bleibtreu, tool room department; M. S. Willson, incandescent testing department; Edward Kohlmeyer, brass foundry department. Upper row, reading from left to right: William Rathert, blacksmith department; Charles Knothe, machine department; Percy Bosworth, dynamo department; John J. Bauer, arc lamp department; Samuel Elliott, pattern department; Harry Evans, carpenter department; Calvin Reyrer, transformer department; A. Link Johnson, foreman of labor department. William Rathert is dead and Charles Knothe, Percy Bosworth, Louis Freyer, William Brizzolarri and Fred Bleibtreu have quit the service and are employed elsewhere. All of the others are still at the works and with two or three exceptions occupy the same positions they held sixteen years ago, when the photograph was made.

SALE OF SKIN CAUSES DEATH

Hungarian Farmer Refuses Operation Because of Former Bargain.

Budapest, Feb. 7.—Lukas Nagy, a Hungarian farmer who suffered from elephantasis, some years ago made a contract with a museum to sell his skin for £35. Recently he became very ill and was told that the only way to prolong his life was to consent to the amputation of one of his legs. This he refused to do, as his agreement with the museum stipulated that he should do nothing which might lessen the value of his skin. This refusal cost him his life. On his deathbed, however, he repented of the bargain, and begged his relatives to repay the money to the hospital and bury him whole and unskinned.

To enable a person to keep his face immersed in water for several minutes, as for facial massage, a Washington man has invented a clip to close the nostrils and a rubber tube to admit air through the mouth.

"RIGHT FROM THE FIRST I LOVED YOU" — ACT II —

THE coming of Henry W. Savage's English Grand Opera company and that organization's presentation in this city at an early date of the successful American impresario's lavishly beautiful production of Giacomo Puccini's latest and most powerful work "The Girl of the Golden West," in English, and founded on David Belasco's well-known play of the same title, is an event fraught with significant interest to music lovers of this and adjacent cities, as it affords an opportunity to hear an opera which has secured the most tremendous popular success ever scored by a grand opera in Europe or America. Even at this early hour of its announced visit lively interest is manifested in the engagement. Both society and musical circles are in ecstacies,—looking forward to the occasion as the one rare musical treat of the year.

As is usual with all real gifts in these barren days of operatic novelty, the public owes its gratitude to Henry W. Savage for making possible the presentation of the beautiful work here,—the grateful feeling being doubly accentuated inasmuch as the opera will be sung in English,—the language in which the Italian music-wizard's masterful score has found greater values, and the emotional appeal of Mr. Belasco's gripping and driving narrative, so distinctively American, the correct spirit and atmosphere, impossible to demonstrate with the use of an alien tongue.

To Mr. Savage belongs the credit of introducing many remarkable works to the English-speaking, thinking and singing world. Some of these which owe to him their first production in English are given here in the sequence of their production: Spinnelli's "A Basso Porto," — (The Lower Harbor)— Puccini's "La Boheme," Puccini's "La Tosca," Verdi's "Othello," Verdi's "Aida," Wagner's "Parsifal,"—a magnificent production equaled only by that of "The Girl of the Golden West"; Wagner's "The Valkyrie," Puccini's "Madam Butterfly," and now the famous Italian maestro's "The Girl of the Golden West"; all of which, were it not for Mr. Savage, might never have been heard in the vernacular of the country. Of these, Puccini was selected for four. This is explained in that he, unlike other modernists of the Italian school and more progressive, has perfectly sensed the musical taste of the age, and knows not the meaning of the word "failure."

The best musical critics of the Old and New Worlds, wherever it has enjoyed a representation, pronounce "The Girl of the Golden West" the finest example of Italy's progressive strides in a new field of music that numbers as its disciples Puccini, Mascagni and Leoncavallo. His latest work is praised for its distinction and significance. It is for this reason, therefore, that Puccini stands as the most definitely operatic composer of the moment. He is credited with having enjoyed greater opportunities than Mascagni or Leoncavallo; this is true, for with two such virile, throbbing, pulsing, red-blooded and human narratives, such as those embodied in David Belasco's plays of "Madam Butterfly" and "The Girl of the Golden West" to build a musical score upon, his opportunities were great. Like Wagner, he is concerned, and ever has been, with just one phase of art. To those that come after may be left the task of deciding as to his exact place in the role of fame. By the oneness of his endeavor, by the sincerity of his expression, by the spontaneity of his vocal melody, just now Puccini stands worthily, unrivaled,—the greatest living master of music.

Mr. Savage in his massive, yet beautiful production of the Puccini masterpiece, has sought to make it a final and convincing argument in favor of Grand Opera in English. With this object in view he has gathered five sets of principals possessing the combined gifts of youth and beauty, together with consummate vocal and acting skill. Without these attributes, and they must be of the highest degree, the carefully drawn characters of the early California gold-seekers' camp of 49, the matchless melody of Puccini and the intense dramatic interest of the Belascoan story,—the foundation upon which the opera was builded, would lose their best values, that of savor, spirit and atmosphere.

To fit the difficult roles in the opera was no small task and Mr. Savage was compelled to draw heavily on both Europe and America to complete his five casts.

His most noted prima donnas-soprano are Mme Luisa Villani, the famous Italian-American singer, one of the world's most beautiful and accomplished grand opera artistes; Miss Edna Blanche Showalter, a charming American beauty, with a voice of great range and sweetness, and Mme Irma Delossy, from the Royal Opera, Vienna, a superb Hungarian dramatic soprano. Among the prima donnas-contralto will be heard Mme. Dina Puglia, principal prima donna-contralto, who comes direct from Mascagni's Royal Theatre, Parma, and Miss Ivy Scott, from far off Australia.

In tenors, Mr. Savage's company is particularly rich and he will offer no less than six,—each of international fame; these include Ellison Van Hoose, from the Chicago-Philadelphia Opera Co., Henri Leon, from the Royal Operas, of Berlin, Copenhagen and Stockholm; Leon de Souza, from the Operas, of Lisbon, Paris and London, Umberto Sacchetti, formerly principal tenor with the San Carlo Opera Co.; Pilade Sinagra, from the Operas, of Milan and Naples, and Henri Barron, of the French Operas. William Beck, one of the world's most distinguished artists, from the Grand Opera, Paris, and the Metropolitan and Manhattan Opera companies, New York, and Carl Gantvoort, of Mr. Savage's original cast for "Madam Butterfly" and last year principal baritone with the Boston Opera Co.; are the notable baritones secured by Mr. Savage.

For the instrumental interpretation of the wonderful tone pictures of Puccini's masterpiece Mr. Savage has formed a grand opera orchestra of fifty, the largest carried by any grand opera organization. This fine orchestral corps is conducted by Maestro Giorgio Polacco, the discoverer of Tetrazzini, and Puccini's own choice for Mr. Savage's first conductor. Alfred Moulton, of London and Paris, and Alberto Bimboni, of Florence, who will alternate with Signor Polacco in conducting. The chorus is large and the stage investiture of surprising beauty, massive and correct.

REVOLTING TALE FROM OKLAHOMA

Trio, One of Them Victim's Wife, Drew Straws to Murder Him.

LOT FELL TO LOVER

Oklahoma City, Feb. 10.—The murder of Thomas J. Gentry, which was for a time shrouded in mystery, has been cleared up by the work of detectives employed by the Masonic fraternity. Had it not been that Gentry was a Mason the killing might have remained forever a mystery.

Gentry came here several years ago, bringing an attractive bride with him. The girl he married was Miss Alverta Bess Weightman, daughter of a salesman for a packing house. Gentry went into the business of cleaning clothes. He did not have much capital to start with, but he made money fast and soon owned considerable property. His wife's father came to Oklahoma City, bringing with him two other grown daughters and a son just growing into manhood. The young man is Maurice Weightman and Gentry started him in business with a cigar stand in the lobby of one of the big hotels.

On the night of January 6, which was Saturday night, Gentry left his office and started home. He saw several friends on the way and talked with other friends on the street car. That was the last time he was ever seen alive by any of his friends outside of his own family.

Passed the Night From Home.

Mrs. Gentry said she spent the night away from home. She went home Sunday morning at 9 o'clock and found the body of her husband in a rocking chair before the fire in their sitting room. He had been shot in the back of the head with a bullet. There was no revolver in the house. Gentry's own weapon having disappeared.

It was noticed by the coroner and others that Gentry's diamond was missing from his necktie. When he was shot his head fell slightly forward and to one side, but the body remained in an upright position. The gas was still burning in the gas stove, in front of which he was seated. The blood from the wound had run down and soaked the cushion of the chair. It had discolored his shirt front, and gore marks of fingers were on the bosom of his shirt, presumably where the robber had unscrewed the diamond and taken it from his tie.

Apparently it had been a robbery. When the young woman found the body of her husband she became hysterical, and to neighbors who came in she said, through her sobs, that he had been killed for the diamond. The bullet had passed entirely through his head and was found in one corner of the room.

Members of the order to which Gentry belonged did not believe it was a case of robbery and employed detectives to work on the case. They traced the woman during all the time she said she was downtown, despite her plausible story in explanation of her absence from home. She said her husband had telephoned to her before leaving his office that he was going to El Reno, and asked her to meet him at the interurban station. She went to the station, she said, but the train had gone and she did not see her husband. He had told her to not stay alone in the house at night, knowing she was afraid to do so, but to go to a hotel if she did not reach the station in time to meet him there and join him in his trip to the neighboring town.

Detectives Skeptical.

It was a connected story the young woman told, but still there was suspicion in the minds of the detectives. They caused the arrest of Maurice Weightman, the widow's brother. After watching Weightman a few days and discovering that he was a cigarette fiend, they deprived him of tobacco of any kind for twenty-four hours.

At the end of that time young Weightman was so nervous that he could scarcely stand. He was sweated while in that nervous condition and finally confessed that he was in the house when Gentry was killed. He said Jesse K. Mackey, known in the city as the champion billiard player of the southwest, was also in the Gentry home when the murder was committed. He did not tell the whole story at once, but a little at a time.

Mackey was arrested and placed in jail. He at first denied all knowledge of the crime. Finally, after he had been confronted with undeniable proof he confessed to the county attorney and a half dozen others, the confession being made at midnight in the county attorney's office.

The story as told by Mackey was corroborated by the statements of young Weightmann. The billiard player said he first met Mrs. Gentry two years ago when he was a delivery clerk and carried groceries to her house. In a short time he made the visits more frequently, always going to the house when Gentry was away. To the neighbors he was known as a brother of Mrs. Gentry.

Mackey said he met Mrs. Gentry in the city the evening before the murder and they went to the postoffice, where they met Maurice Weightman. Mrs. Gentry's brother. There he learned that Gentry had lately told Weightman that he would no longer remain on his surety bond for debts at the cigar stand, and Weightman was angry about it.

Murder Is Proposed.

Mrs. Gentry, Mackey said, first proposed the murder of her husband, and planned it in the postoffice. They then went to the Gentry home and prepared deliberately for the murder. A short time before Gentry came home the three conspirators stood in the kitchen and Mrs. Gentry placed three straws in her hand, to be drawn, the one drawing the short straw to fire the shot. Weightman drew the short straw. A short time later as Mrs. Gentry sat by the window she turned to the others and said:

"Here he comes."

Gentry came in a few minutes later and seated himself in the chair by the stove. Mackey went out at the kitchen door and stood in the yard, waiting for the shot to be fired. Mrs. Gentry stood in the kitchen door leading into the room where Gentry sat, and watched her brother as he made preparations to kill her husband. Young Weightman had Gentry's own revolver in his pocket. He walked up behind the man who had befriended him and without hesitation shot him through the head.

The three then fled from the house, according to Mackey's confession, which has since been corroborated by Weightman, and boarded a street car. They threw the revolver away as they fled from the scene, and it was found where they said it had been thrown.

Sorry She Took the Diamond.

The mystery of the case now is that a young woman of good family should plan to murder her husband, as Mrs. Gentry is said to have done. Both Weightman and Mackey say the woman herself went to the body of her murdered husband after he had been shot and removed the diamond from his tie, staining her hands as she did so. The three went to a hotel and spent the remainder of the night. The next morning Mrs. Gentry went to the house and pretended to discover the body of her murdered husband. She advanced the theory that he had been killed for the purpose of robbery.

Mrs. Gentry has been regarded highly by those who know her; her parents are respectable and all her associates with the exception of Mackey have been of the best.

County Attorney Zwick has said that the trial of the three persons charged with the crime will be a short one. It is expected that within sixty days from the time the murder was committed the trial will be over. The Masons have furnished funds for the detective work and have employed Judge S. H. Harris, who is known as the ablest prosecutor in the state, to assist in the prosecution.

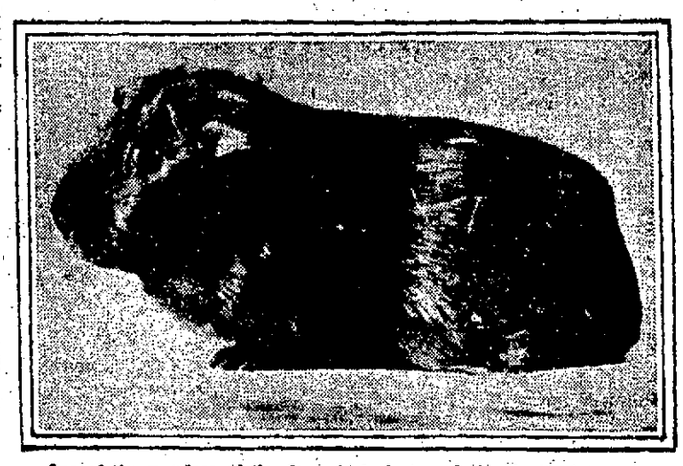
GUINEA PIG DEFIES FIRE, WATER AND STARVATION.



One of the wonders of the fire which destroyed the Equitable Assurance Society's building in New York on January 9 was the finding in the ruins sixteen days afterward of a guinea pig that had gone through fire, water, ice and starvation and came out apparently none the worse. The animal belonged to a member of the medical staff of the insurance company, and it recognized his voice when he went into the building to direct a search for his instruments and squealed a welcome to him.

HUSBAND GETS WORST ON THIS

Missouri Judge Sends Him to Jail Instead of Accused Wife.

QUEER OLD STATUTE

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 10.—A ruling by Judge Latshaw, in the criminal court, when he sentenced Harold B. Clark to prison for the theft of a diamond ring supposed to have been stolen by his wife, holding Clark responsible because he was present, was an application of a queer law on the statutes of Missouri and many other states. Under it a married woman enjoys some remarkable privileges without danger of punishment if she takes the precaution to perform her misdeeds when her lord and master is near by.

A wife may steal, set the house on fire, commit forgery, arson or bigamy and it is all right with the law if it appears that she acted in her husband's presence and there was a chance that she did it under constraint by him. The law may be very severe with the husband, but the wife goes scot free.

An Illustration.

"Mr. Jones, says the Kansas City Star, an amiable and peace loving person, is weeding the onions in the back lot. Mrs. Jones is conversing with Mrs. Brown across the garden fence. Mrs. Jones becomes angry and strikes Mrs. Brown on the nose with a loose picket. Very hasty of Mrs. Jones, perhaps, but that's all. Mr. Jones, who never has stopped work, except occasionally to wipe away a furtive tear superinduced by the ardent onions, is guilty of assault and battery, of nothing worse, and that in a particularly atrocious form, as he merely had a bowing acquaintance with Mrs. Brown and never had spoken a half-dozen words to her in his life.

In the one hundred and sixty-second Missouri Reports a supreme court decision says concerning a case in which a woman Qearried a revolver to her husband in jail:

"Marriage does not take away from a wife her general capacity to commit crime, but it casts upon her the duty of obedience to and affection for her husband. The law indulges the presumption that if she commits an offense in her husband's presence it was the result of his constraint and coercion, and in the absence of proof to the contrary excuses her."

Arkansas and New York.

Judge Gantt, of the Missouri supreme court, in commenting on the wife's immunity from punishment, said:

"From a close examination and comparison of the cases and the text writers, the general rule admitted by all seems to be that if a wife commits any felony with the exception of murder, treason and perhaps some other heinous felonies, in the absence of evidence to the contrary is is assumed that she did it under constraint by him (her husband) and is therefore excused."

Bishop's "New Criminal Law" has this:

"An act (by the wife) not begun in the husband's presence is within the rule if completed in it. Thus, when a wife conveyed to her husband in prison, by his direction, an implement for escape, she was deemed to have acted under his coercion, therefore entitled to acquittal."

"You see," says Judge Latshaw, "a woman is supposed to obey her husband but she may get him into a lot of trouble by being too ready."

Arkansas, which had a similar law to that of Missouri, recently modified it, and New York has gone further and repealed the wife immunity statue.

MORE ZERO TONIGHT.

But Last Night's Mark of 9 Below Will Not Be Reached.

More zero weather is indicated for Fort Wayne tonight, but Forecaster W. S. Palmer believes the temperature will hardly go below that figure, and that Sunday will bring some slight relief from the chill.

The low record for last night was 9 degrees below the zero mark.

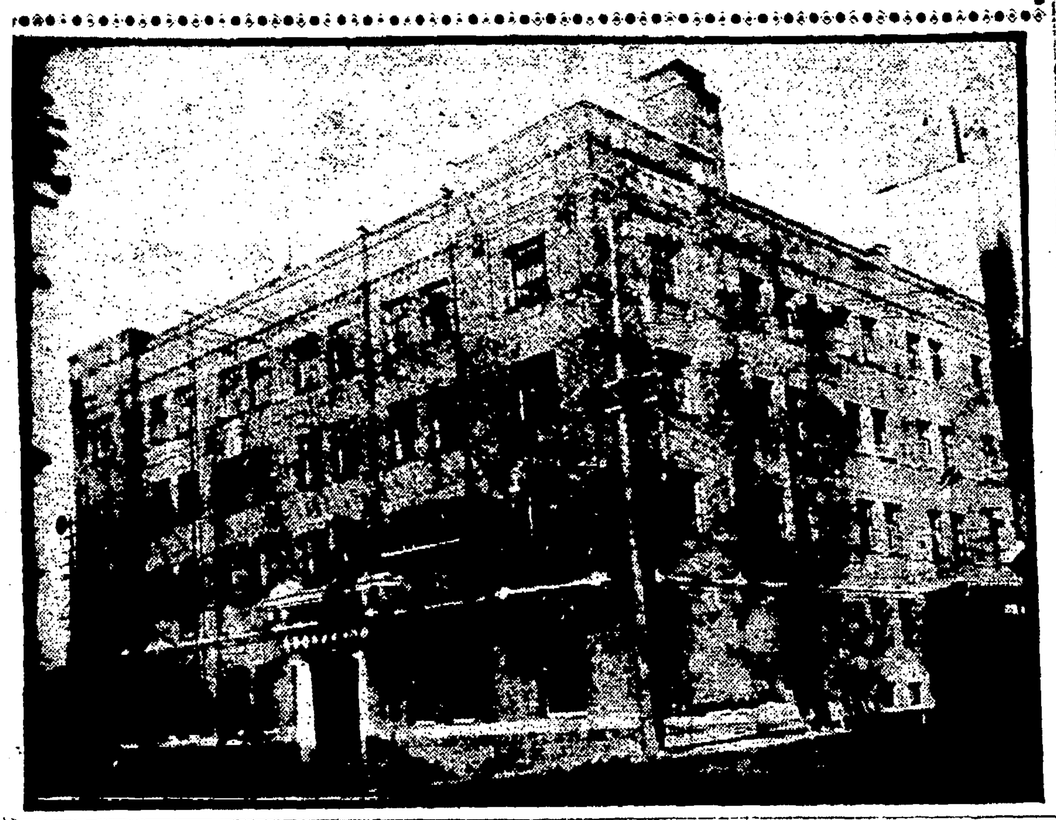
MAGNIFICENT NEW HOME OF G. E. BURSLEY & CO., WHOLESALE GROCERS.



OPEN IN NEW HOME MONDAY

G. E. Bursley & Co. Now Located in Magnificent Structure.

THE PLACE IS A MODEL

G. E. Bursley & Co. will on Monday morning open for business at their new building on Superior and Clinton streets.

Ordinarily this simply announcement would carry all that's to be said but when it is known that the firm is moving into the finest wholesale grocery building in the state of Indiana, that it had previously been in one location for twenty-four years and that before the structure was fully completed it had been so widely advertised that already merchants from South Bend and Evansville have taken occasion to inspect it to get ideas for buildings of their own it can readily be seen that there is necessity for saying more.

One feature of the building that will be appreciated by the public is that all of the loading and unloading will be done on the premises of the firm and that there will be no interruption of street traffic or kindred inconveniences arising from this department of the business.

Another feature is that although the building is 182½ by 107. four stories high with basement and has a hundred thousand feet of floor space, there is not a beam in the whole structure.

The floors are of flat slab construction, a term very readily understood by experts, but to the layman it is not intelligible. To explain, the concrete is poured on reinforced steel mesh and each floor is ten inches thick.

Every inside opening is protected by an automatic fire door and all of the elevator shafts and the stair wells are surrounded by solid concrete walls.

Along the Nickel Plate road there is track space for five freight cars and inside on a level with the car doors is storage for the contents of all these cars if it should be found necessary to unload them in a hurry to save demurrage charges.

Interurban freight cars can be run into the building from the east end, unloaded and chased out on the Superior street side and sent on to their destination without a minute of inconvenience to street car patrons.

In planning for and erecting this big building the firm has not only provided a most spacious and convenient home for its business but it has obtained the lowest rate that insurance companies can give on big establishments of its character. In addition to making the buildingas near fire proof as the art of man can make it an automatic sprinkling system has been installed with 1,025 sprinkler heads.

"We got just a little bit fancy on this entrance," said Mr. F. L. Smock in showing the building, "but we are building for a life time and what's the difference." This entrance is through a big vestibule faced with Tennessee marble and trimmed with mission oak and it is certainly most attractive.

The sample room and offices occupy a space sixty by eighty-five feet and there will be a telephone plant installed. One interesting feature is the spiral chute in the center of the building from the top floor to the basement. This provides a means of shooting or "chuting" merchandise from floor to floor without loss of time or the use of an elevator and means a saving in energy as the motive power is provided by the laws of gravitation.

Trap doors are located on each floor, and by means of these, goods can be stopped in transit just where they are wanted. The coffee roasting department is on the top floor and all of the new machinery afforded by the market is being installed so that this department will be thoroughly modern.

All of the salesmen were called in off the road this week and provided with overalls and given the task of helping in moving the stock. They apparently enjoyed it.

Laborers were picked up here and there to help out and all of them were provided with as much hot coffee as they felt like drinking during the day. An oil stove was set up in the office and a woman kept busy all day handing out the beverage to the laborers who patronized her freely.

The firm was established in 1881 and first occupied a store building on West Main street, where the Seavey hardware establishment is now located. It has been progressive at all times, growing by leaps and bounds until it is now one of the foremost jobbing houses of this section and its big building is the result of the demand for more housing for the big enterprise.

NECK BROKEN, WILL LIVE.

Baltimore, Feb. 10.—His neck broken in a fall down a flight of stairs, Uriah Washburn, 36 years old, a native of Gloucester, N. J., is rapidly recovering in St. Joseph's hospital here, and expects to leave the institution within two or three weeks just as good as ever.

The fact that, providing there is no setback, he will not be compelled to wear a support of any sort to hold his head in place, is considered a wonderful triumph for modern surgery.

"And I owe it all to Dr. Frank J. Kirby," said Washburn between the puffs of a cigar, propped up in his bed. "I can never repay him for saving my life and giving me back the use of my neck."

NEGROES SLAIN; BLAME FANATICS

Strange Sect Thought Responsible for Many Killings.

CASES ALL SIMILAR

New Orleans, Feb. 10.—Twenty-four negroes have been mysteriously murdered within the last year in Southwestern Louisiana. The police of the towns and the country authorities are baffled. The negroes of the section are in a panic Voodoo doctors are selling to them hundreds of charms. The negroes have more faith in the amulets as a protection than in the police.

But the police, failing to find any motive for murder, such as personal enmity, jealousy or robbery, have formed a theory that the wholesale slaughter is the result of religious fanaticism and have arrested King Harris, a negro preacher, who, late in 1910, founded the Church of Sacrifice. He is being held in an effort to find whether his teachings have any connection with the murders.

Negroes of the section affected are always eager to "get religion" and Pastor Harris soon had a large following, with congregations at Jennings, Lafayette, Lake Charles and other towns.

Entire Families Killed.

One night in the following January, in Lafayette, the Andrus family of negroes—parents and three children—were murdered. They were found, in their beds, their heads crushed. On the floor was a blood-stained ax. There was no clew to the murder.

A few weeks later another negro family of Lafayette—the Randalls—parents and four children—were found dead. They had been murdered. The circumstances were the same as in the first murder and again there was no definite clew.

Superstitious negroes declared an evil spell was upon their race.

The next December, near Crowley, a negro family named Warner—parents and two children—were murdered. Beside the bed of the parents was a crimson-stained ax.

Police Accept Fanatic Theory.

And while great fear was still upon the negroes of the section, the Wexford negro family—parents and two children—were murdered. The circumstances were the same as in the preceding tragedies. The mystery deepened. The negroes were sure there was a curse upon them.

The police of the parishes settled on the theory that the murders were committed by a fanatic. It was rumored that the teachings of the Sacrifice sect were founded upon the giving of human could not verify this report, but decided there was some connection between the life to appease divine wrath. The police murders and this inscription found on the door frame of the house of tragedy after each murder:

"When He maketh the requisition for blood He forgetteth not the cry of the humble."

Then came the murder of the Broussard family of negroes—parents and three children—at Lake Charles, January 14. Once more the red ax was found by the bed of the parents, and on the door frame was this inscription:

"When He maketh his requisition for blood He forgetteth not the cry of the humble."

The arrest of Pastor Harris was then ordered. The police have no clew except the inscription, but the pastor is being held while further investigation is made. The terror of the negroes is increasing. Whether the murders are superstitious acts of atonement is not known, but among negroes and the white population the murders are termed "the sacrifice."

MAORI WOMEN WAR ON TRUST

BALLOT AS WEAPON

Chicago, Feb. 10.—"I am amazed to find the American people so far behind the times in government," declared Mrs. Hine Rawei, of Aukland, New Zealand, in an address to the public school teachers at the Art institute. She then asserted that "women purify politics, humanize government and are natural 'trust busters.'" This assertion she backed by the statement that she had every reason to know, for women have the privilege of the ballot in her native country and have accomplished great things at the polls.

Mrs. Rawei, a native Maori, is considered one of the most brilliant women of New Zealand. She was a successful suffrage worker in New Zealand and had great part in the work which lifted the native New Zealanders from savages to men and women of letters and model citizens. She is a musician of distinction.

"Let me tell you a few things we have accomplished in New Zealand through women's votes," she said. "We have had a good trial—we have been voting twenty years.

Conditions in New Zealand.

"We are not menaced with crime. Our laws are made to be enforced and justice is swift. Murders are rare. We have no waiting list of criminals.

"Men must work, must support their families. We have no poverty and no very poor class.

"We do not tax industry; we tax non-industry.

"We allow our men and women alike to work but eight hours a day. Therefore, our business houses are more flourishing than yours.

"We have no use for trusts. The welfare of New Zealand is in the hands of the people—and we are a prosperous country.

"We have a pension for the aged.

"The government encourages the purchase of land. It will loan money to worthy farmers.

"Our lives are simple and we have none of the diseases peculiar to the complexity of life both here and in England.

"We have free elephones for the poor residing in the country.

"Our government owns the railroad, telephone, telegraph and street car systems, the water power and everything militarian.

"I have told you what our country prospers under. We know because we have given these things a good test.

Women Liberate Country.

"Sixty years ago our country was in the hands of half-dozen foreigners who had built up one of the biggest trusts in the world. Our people were savages. Our lands were owned by foreigners and all the money from sheep and farming went to a foreign country.

"Twenty years ago women obtained suffrage, and one by one bad laws have been broken down and good ones built up in their place.

"A good woman has the same influence over politics that she does over everything else she comes in contact with. All women are more conscientious than men, and nine times out of ten women will vote for the right man, irrespective of money, position or anything else."

The THEATRE

AT THE MAJESTIC.

This Evening—"Are You a Mason?"
Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and Wednesday Matinee—"School-days."
Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Matinees Thursday and Saturday—Catherine Countiss in "The White Sister."

LAST TIME TONIGHT.

Final Performance of Shrine Show, "Are You a Mason?"

"Are You a Mason?" the Mystic Shriners' show, with its gorgeous oriental scene as an afterpart, which has been enjoying a phenomenal run all this week, will be given its final production at the Majestic this evening. It will be the last opportunity to see the famous Dietrichstein farce comedy enacted by the superb company headed by Miss Louise Dunbar, as well as the music, the drills and the general splenor of the "stunt" by the local Shriners.

The week has been phenomenally successful for the Shriners, and it has at the same time furnished some delightful entertainment for local theater-goers.

"SCHOOL DAYS."

Herman Timberg and Company of Young Comedians at Majestic Next Week.

"School Days," a veritable elixir of youth, bringing back pleasant recollections of other days to the old folks and providing unlimited fun for the youngsters, is the title of Gus Edwards' musical comedy that Stair & Havlin present at the Majestic theater Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, with matinee Wednesday. The production is practically the same as that which toured the country with great success last season and which had a long and successful run at the Circle theater, New York.

"School Days" is an entirely different production from the ordinary hackneyed musical comedy. The chorus is composed exclusively of young girls, a few, if any, over eighteen years old.

Gus Edwards, however, has done more than introduce a stage full of young people with their delightful musical numbers and dancing act. He has supplied a story that mixes in well with the tuneful melodies, and the quick, clever, animated dancing. In fact, this chorus, with their animation and vim cannot be excelled. The musical numbers with which the three acts abound are all of a lively order and there are many genuine hits, including a number of original compositions by Herman Timberg which are being heard for the first time this season.

Some of the song hits that are due to meet with favor here include "They Always Pick on Me," "I Want to Be a Cowboy," "There Ain't no Man in the Moon," "In the Days of Girls and Boys," "When School Days Comes to Town."

Herman Timberg is the star of the production, with his portrayal of a poor Jewish boy that has stamped him as a natural artist. Nearly all the principals are those who were in the cast during the Circle theater (New York) run. The comedy has some effective songs and stage effects, the finale of the school room being particularly brilliant during the "merry-go-round" song, when the desks are joined into an actual carousal, with colored lights and bunting, turning in a merry circle as the chorus sings the song.

Mr. Herman Timberg in "School Days," at the Majestic Theater, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday—Wednesday Matinee.

"THE WHITE SISTER."

Cathrine Countiss Coming to Majestic in Viola Allen's Enormous Success.

In "The White Sister," by F. Marion Crawford, a play of national success, which Cathrine Countiss brings to the Majestic theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with matinee Thursday and Saturday, a woman believing that her lover has been slain on the field of battle, takes convent vows. The report of the soldier's death proves false and the nun is confronted with a soul-racking problem: The arguments for and against surrender to the lover's appeal are advanced in a scene involving the nun, the soldier and the prelate.

Severe.—"It's a monstrous injustice that you should be bound by a promise made in ignorance. We belong to each other just as truly as if we were man and wife. When you tell the facts you will be offered a dispensation. And you will ask for a dispensation, won't you?"

The Nun.—"If you have given a man your word of honor—to pay a debt you owed him—would you break your word because you suddenly discovered you could do something else with the money which would give you a keener pleasure?"

Severi.—"That is different."

The Nun.—"Not so different as you think. I have given my word to God, and I must pay my debt. But every day, every hour, we can both live the same life in the same hope. A nun and a soldier, each facing danger, perhaps death, that others may live."

Monsignor.—"The church will do nothing that the law will not do, and the law would not release Sister Giovana from a legal obligation taken under the same circumstances."

Severi.—"What do you mean?"

Monsignor.—"This: If, instead of becoming a nun, Angela had married another man, though she had not changed toward you, but believed you were dead, Italian law would not permit that marriage in order that she might become your wife."

Severi.—"Of course not."

Monsignor.—"Then why should the church annul an obligation which is quite as solemn as marriage?"

Severi.—"The church will never allow Sister Giovana to ask her freedom!"

Monsignor.—"She is as free to ask for a dispensation as you were to resign your commission when you were ordered to join an expedition on which you nearly lost your life, and her act in doing so would be regarded by her sisters as your comrades would have regarded yours. Can you not see that the only tie that binds her to her vows—the chains she wears—are those of duty? Ah, my friend, you and those like you who say such bitter things against the church, how little you understand. The church asks nothing—it demands nothing—it only accepts. It desires not servitude, but willing service. You see your happiness above all else, but the church labors that all the world may be happy."

CATHERINE COUNTISS

"The White Sister" depicts the conflict in a woman's soul between an earthly love and loyalty to conventual vows. It makes vital upon the stage the most widely read of F. Marion Crawford's famous Italian romances.

"FANTASMA."

Famous Hanlon Production to Be Seen at the Majestic Soon.

Always wizards of stage tricks and mechanics, the famous Hanlons are said to have fairly outdone themselves in their presentation of "Fantasma" this year. This stupendous production will soon be the attraction at the Majestic theater for an engagement of three days. "Fantasma" is in a bright new dress and it is said to be more entertaining and interesting than it ever was before.

"NAUGHTY MARIETTA."

A Beautiful Opera of Fine Principals, Pretty Girls and Excellent Comedy.

Miss Florence Webber and the Hammerstein company in Victor Herbert's "Naughty Marietta," this week's attraction at the Dauphine, is an unusually excellent entertainment, says the New Orleans Daily States of January 8. The music is of the best of its kind, the book and lyrics are good, the more important singers can do a little acting and have sense enough not to overdo it, and there is a good singing chorus of girls who deserve a line or two for themselves.

There are no wonderful figures or wonderful faces in the chorus. There are one or two on whom it is difficult to keep your eyes after you have had a look at the others. But, taken as a whole, it is the daintiest, prettiest, most graceful chorus that has appeared in New Orleans for some time. The girls look fresh and take an interest in their work. There are several present who would not look out of place with the Russian dancers, who set a standard of graceful beauty that has not yet been approached by the many collections of pretty girls presented at the Dauphine.

The singing is uniformly excellent throughout the show.

Miss Florence Webber can sing and dance and act; she is pretty, with the well-rounded beauty that comes to petite women when they near the end of the first years after youth; and she has such a store of bounding life that she is fresh and lively in the finale as when she sings "It Never, Never Can Be Love." Miss Florence is gifted with vim, nerve, vitality and grace, considerable in size for her small height, and a magnetic manner that holds her audience from first to last. She is a whole show by herself.

Edward Beck has an excellent basso voice and uses it well. Sid Braham is an excellent comedian. He revives some of the best mannerisms of the old style of comic opera funny man with excellent effect. Sid was fine when he sang "It's Pretty Soft for Silas."

"Naughty Marietta" is a good comic opera from first to last, and the company presents a higher average of merit than any of its predecessors this season. The singers show a sincere interest in entertaining the audience, and succeed in doing so. The singers were selected for their voices. They have them. The costumes are a close approximation of those worn by the people of Louisiana in 1780. The scene is New Orleans.

LYRIC THEATER

WHO WEARS THEM.

In a dispute for the possession of the bifurcade garments young Mrs. French conclusively proves that she is entitled to wear them.

There is no doubt that domestic work palled upon Harry French. He hated the job of helping his young wife pack their belongings preparatory to moving from their Harlem flat. And Mrs. French was inexorable; she kept Harry hard at work. But he intended escaping petticoat thraldom for a time. In the apartment below there was a card game threatening and Harry determined to make one. So he feigned madness, alarmed his wife and made his escape. Joining the party, he won largely and was happy in his success. Mrs. French got wind of Harry's whereabouts and surprised him in the act of deception. When he returned laden with the spoil, he was greeted with a broomstick attack, deprived of his winnings, physically sat upon and informed that his better half "wore them."

TEMPLE VAUDEVILLE

Unusual Offering of Novelties and Feature Acts for the Coming Week's Program—Cooper's Wonderful Transformation Company With Martin Johnson's Travelogues Showing Jack London's Adventures in the South Sea Islands as a Special Added Attraction.

At the Temple Next Week

During the career of the Temple theater as a vaudeville house the high artistic plane of that style of entertainment has only been reached after a bitter fight with ignorance, superstition and cant. In its early stages society called it cheap, and prudery pronounced it vulgar. Men, women and children now spend a most generous part of their earnings each week in proclaiming it the most clean and wholesome form of American entertainment, not only in Fort Wayne, but every city of any importance throughout the country, is the patronage to vaudeville most liberal. No less authority than Daniel Frohman has said that producers of the "problem play" may well look to vaudeville as setting the standard of morals for the modern stage. Everything that is spoken or sung, gestures, pantomime, costumes—in fact, everything that goes to make up an act—undergoes a censorship infinitely more rigid than is expressed in any high priced legitimate theater.

Getting back to the original subject, however, the intention of this article is to inform Fort Wayne theater-goers what the Temple has in store for them during the week which begins Monday afternoon, February 12, and judging from the list of acts announced, the experienced theater-goer and vaudevillian who is familiar with these stars and their work pronounce it one of the strongest and best bills of the year, even in the face of the extraordinary program that has been given this week. Of course, as Mark Twain says, "It's the difference of opinion that makes horse races," and so very often it's the difference of opinion that makes a vaudeville performance good to this one and bad to another.

Heading the aggregation which opens Monday afternoon and which Manager Stouder places on its merits is the Musical Coopers, in a transformation act that is not only musical but at the same time entertaining, beautiful and startling. First there is a cooperage in which three workmen make charming music as they work, and as the program proceeds there is a sudden surprise change to a beautiful interior containing two gentlemen and a lady. The gentlemen play instruments suitable to their surroundings and the lady gives a quick change dance; and in the midst of it all there is a lightning-like return to the cooperage and the three musical workmen. It is said to be a triumph of stagecraft and was first brought out in the Christmas pantomimes of the Drury Lane theater, London.

As an extra added feature for this bill Martin Johnson's travelogues, stories and pictures of South Sea island life has been engaged. Johnson is the man who accompanied Jack London on his tour of the world in a forty-five-foot launch, and tells many interesting tales of his travels. The popularity of this form of amusement seems to be on the increase, as, for instance, the Burton Holmes travelogues at Orchestra Hall, Chicago; the Elemdorf and the Stoddard lectures in the east, show in a measure the spirit of the times in the educating influence of voyages and travel.

A vaudeville sketch entitled, "What Happened in Room 44," is the title of the comedy offering that will be presented by the Valerie Bergere players.

Shean and Marx present a novelty entitled, "From Grand Opera to Rag-Time."

The VanCamp company will introduce his "litle trained pig." Joe Lanigan has a patter of new stories, so he says, and Joe has been making good everywhere. Spiro and Lovins do ten minutes in one, and theirs is said to be an act that leaves a good taste and a longing for more.

Those who have heard Mr. Dicey and his splendid orchestra play "In the Shadows" this week will be delighted to learn that Mr. Dicey has much more of this class of music in his repertoire, from which he will make his selections the coming week.

ANY NEW READER CAN PREPARE IT

Prescription Recommended for Elderly Folks — Simple Home Made Remedy and How to Prepare It—If you Have Stomach, Kidney or Bladder Trouble or Rheumatism.

This is a simple home recipe now being made in all the larger cities through the newspapers. It is intended to check the many cases of dyspepsia, rheumatism, kidney and bladder trouble which have made so many cripples and invalids and weaklings of some of our brightest and strongest people.

The druggists here have been notified to supply themselves with the ingredients and the sufferers will have no trouble to obtain them. The prescription is as follows: Fluid Extract Juniper Berries, one ounce; Compound Fluid Balmwort, one ounce; Compound Syrup Hypophosphites, four ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle. Dose is one teaspoonful before each meal and at bed time. Recent experiments prove this simple mixture effective in rheumatism, because of its positive action upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys. It compels these most vital organs to filter from the blood and system the waste impurities and uric acid, which are the cause of rheumatism. It cleanses the kidneys, strengthens them and removes quickly such symptoms as dyspepsia, backache, blood disorders, bladder weakness, frequent urination, painful, scalding and discolored urine. It acts as a powerful stimulant to the entire kidney and bladder structure.

Those who suffer and are accustomed to purchase a bottle of medicine should not let a little inconvenience interfere with making this up.

They will cure any case of kidney or bladder trouble not beyond the reach of medicine. No medicine can do more. For sale by Dreier Drug Co.

WOMEN TO USE HOME TALENT

Kansas Suffragists Will Do Their Own Campaign Talking.

WORK MORE SINCERE

Topeka, Kan., Feb. 9.—Kansas women are going to depend almost entirely on home talent for suffrage speeches in the speaking campaign that is now being organized. The suffrage leaders have found that most of the good speakers in the east are suffragists for revenue only, and demand not only their expenses, but anywhere from $5 to $200 a day for their speeches.

Anyway, the Kansas women say, the eastern speakers come out to Kansas with a patronizing air that doesn't set very well with the average Kansas man and their speeches would be of doubtful value. The older leaders among the women assert that it was this same patronizing manner of the eastern speakers who were brought to Kansas in the first suffrage campaign twenty years ago that caused the defeat of the amendment.

The primary suffrage campaign has developed a number of promising speakers among the younger women of the state, and they are now in training for the coming campaign. To save the expense of halls, the campaign will be conducted largely in open air meetings, at picnics, fairs and Chautauqua meetings. Every Chautauqua gathering in the state will have one or two good suffrage speakers on the program. Several of these will be eastern women who have volunteered to help the cause in Kansas, asking only that their expenses will be paid.

Mrs. Mary E. Lease, who was a big figure in the first campaign, probably will spend several weeks in the state. She has been making suffrage speeches in the east, and is said to have lost none of her old-time fire which she used to put into her speeches to advise the farmers of Kansas to "raise more hell and less corn," and reminding them that that translated into the Kansas language, "Ad Astra Per Aspera," meant "through hell to breakfast."

Foley Kidney Pills have my heartiest endorsement." For sale by Dreier Drug Co.

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 10.—Despite the refusal of Miss Hazel Hogan to testify in the cases of Dr. Irvine Sislnger, James Hogan and Curtin R. Young, accused of robbing her of $1,756 in the physician's office several months ago, the men were found guilty of the charge in Judge Honore's court here yesterday. The court instructed the jury to find Jerry Mack, another defendant, not guilty. As a result of her refusal to prosecute the case, Miss Hogan yesterday was sentenced to serve six months in the county jail and either pay or work out a fine of $1,700 in the house of correction.

COLOR PHOTOS BY MISHAP.

New Process That Bids Fair to Be Direct and Inexpensive.

Pittsburg, Feb. 10.—It has become known that officials of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company at the East Pittsburg plant will make a final test soon of a discovery of color photography which transcends all methods now in use, owing to their costliness and inability to reproduce all colors.

The new process, accidentally discovered at the Westinghouse plant, it is said, is as simple as ordinary photography. No specially prepared plates or screens are used.

The discovery was made last Thursday by an official photographer through a blunder. He was photographing a painted casting, and somehow in the process allowed an electric lamp to interfere. On developing he found the natural colors. The phenomenon startled him. Carefully noting the nature of the accident, he allowed it again to occur in another picture. A like result was obtained; other experiments were made, and in each case a photograph in natural colors was obtained, with no added cost or special work.

Much secrecy is maintained by the Westinghouse officials, who, it is said, will take out patents on the process, if the exhaustive tests prove satisfactory.

FEICK MAKES CHARGES.

Garrett Man Says Roads Are Violating 16-Hour Law.

Indianapolis, Feb. 10.—Preparatory to steps for the enforcement of the full crew and hours of service laws, charges were made that both statutes are being violated by railroad companies in Indiana at the bi-ennial meeting of the legislative representatives of the Indiana Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen's lodges today. Fred L. Feick, of Garrett, asserted that nearly all of the Indiana roads are violating the 16-hour law.

Complaint was made that the railroad companies have entered into an agreement not to employ a man after he reaches the age of 35 years. It was said that this was a method to obtain a trainman's continuous service on one line. The trainmen propose a bill to provide an eight-hour day for yard men.

The first bottle gave her so much relief that she continued using it and three bottles effected a permanent cure." Mr. W. S. Bailey says he is prepared to answer all inquiries promptly.

Whiskey and Pine for Colds

Fine Formula for Old Time Remedy Cured Thousands Here Last Winter.

The increased use of whiskey for colds is causing considerable discussion among the medical fraternity. It is an almost infallible cure when mixed with certain other ingredients and taken properly. "From your druggist get two ounces of Glycerine and half an ounce of Concentrated Pine Compound. Take these two ingredients home and put them into a half pint of good whiskey. Shake well and take one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bed time." Smaller doses to children according to age. This treatment often knocks the worst cough or cold in a day. But be sure to get only the genuine (Globe) Concentrated Pine. Each half ounce bottle comes in a sealed tin screw-top case. If your druggist does not have it in stock he will quickly get it. Don't experiment with cheap uncertain mixtures. It is very risky. Local druggists say this has had a marvelous demand for the past six years.

Sore Feet Here is quickest and surest cure known for corns, callouses, bunions, frostbites, sweaty and aching feet. DR. HARDMAN, Specialist

I Cure Pelvic, Nervous and Chronic Diseases

REDUCED FEES UNTIL FEBRUARY 15

For the purpose of proving the advantages of my methods in the treatment of PELVIC, NERVOUS and CHRONIC diseases, I will not only give to every one who calls at my office between now and FEBRUARY 15 a careful and thorough examination free of charge, but further to demonstrate to the public the rapidity of the cures I make, I will treat every case I accept for a cure who call on me between now and FEBRUARY 15 at a GREATLY REDUCED FEE.

No man can afford to undertake his daily labor without being well equipped, mentally and physically. It is a fact that the man who is afflicted with any disease is working under a disadvantage in proportion to the extent of the trouble. Many a man has been forced to abandon a successful career because disease had lessened his ability to successfully compete with those who were strong and therefore able to forge to the front. Do you know how much you are losing every day of your life because of your inability to do the work of a strong, healthy man? Do you feel as though you can afford to continue as you are when you can be cured? Perhaps you have tried to get well. Have you ever gone to a specialist, one who has made a lifelong study of diseases such as yours? Perhaps you have gone to your family physician and because he could not cure you have abandoned hope. Did you ever stop to consider that your family physician has several hundred different diseases to treat? Can you blame him for not thoroughly understanding all of them? Of course you cannot. Then why not go to one who devotes all his energies to the study of just a few and who can the more thoroughly understand them?

I have made a special study of Pelvic, Nervous and Chronic diseases and have developed methods which will cure where the ordinary methods have failed.

If you will call at my office I will give you a careful and thorough examination, and if your case is curable I will make you a fee as low as possible and consistent with honest, scientific treatment.

If I think your case is incurable I will tell you so, as I have no time to waste, and no desire to accept money for treating incurable diseases.

BLOOD POISON—I use only the most advanced methods in the treatment of blood poison and kindred diseases.

PROSTATIC ENLARGEMENT—This may result from a number of causes. The constant jarring and vibration of trains and trolley cars are a very potent cause. Bicycle riding and the use of riding implements on the farm are factors in producing the disease. In fact, the causes are so many and varied that fully 75 per cent. of all male adults are afflicted to a greater or lesser extent by this disease. The disease is so little understood, and as one of the principal symptoms is a pain in the back, it is usually called kidney trouble and treated with local applications or sedatives which can do no possible good whatever. I reduce the enlargement and have been able to cure about 90 per cent of all cases.

VARICOCELE—I cure Varicocele in a few days' or weeks' time without the use of the knife.

STRICTURE—I readily remove Stricture by my dissolvent method without the use of instruments.

RUPTURE, PILES, FISTULA, ETC., cured without detention from business and without the use of the knife.

Consultation and All Communications Strictly Confidential. Office Hours—9-12, 1-5. Evenings, 7-8. Sunday, 9-12 Only. No Office Hours on Thursdays. Write or Call on

EGGS GO DOWN TO FORTY CENTS

And They Will Be Down to 37 Cents During the First of the Week.

THE LOCAL MARKETS

Eggs, which during the week were up to 45 cents a dozen and over, took a tumble today—a welcome tumble to the lovers of the hen fruit. They sold today for 40 cents. The first of the week will witness another tumble. On Monday it is expected they will be selling at retail for 37 cents a dozen. The extremely cold weather was the cause of the high prices, but the hens expecting a warmer season of weather the coming week, are beginning to lay in their old fashioned manner.

Grain prices show no change. Wheat is yet 95. Oats sold on the streets today for 47 to 50 and corn at 55 to 60. The good roads have the effect of bringing many farmers to the city today and the grain receipts were larger than at any time during the week.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago Market.

Chicago Ill., Feb. 10.—Weak cables and big receipts northwest made the wheat market today inclined to be easy. May started at $1.03¼@1.03¼ to $1.03¼, and fell to $1.03⅛, rallying later to $1.03¼@1.03⅜.

Assertions that Minnesota mills were being over-supplied with wheat led to a dip but the close was steady at $1.03⅜ for May, a loss of ¼c net.

Fine weather caused heaviness at the outset in corn, but good demand southwest braced up quotations. May opened ¼c down at 68½c and recovered to 68⅝@69¾c.

Wheat weakness acted as a drag on the market. Closing prices were steady, with May 68⅝@68¾c, a gain of a shade.

There was but little pressure on oats. May started unchanged to a shade higher at 52½c to 52⅝c and steadied at 52⅝c.

Larger receipts of hogs than expected carried down provisions. Outside demand was light. First sales were a shade to 5c lower with May delivery $16.20 for pork, $9.30 to $9.32½ for lard and $8.77½ to $8.80 for ribs.

STOCKS AND BONDS.

The Day on Wall Street.

New York, Feb. 10.—Trading in stocks was reduced to a minimum basis when the market opened today. In the first ten minutes there were no transactions in a number of usually active stocks including Reading and Lehigh Valley. Prices were almost motionless. National Biscuit, American Beet Sugar and Southern Railway preferred each of which lost ½, were the stocks which moved most widely.

By the end of the first hour, Reading, Southern Pacific and American Smelting were off ¾ and Union Pacific. United States Steel and Amalgamated Copper ½. International Paper stocks were in brisk demand, the common rising one and the preferred 3¾. American Tobacco was also lifted a point.

The market closed weak. Standard stocks were liquidated freely and short selling was on a large scale. United States Steel went down to 59. Among the railroad issues there were numerous losses of a point or more, with the coalers and western stocks both affected.

WERE GENEROUS WITH CHARITY

Fort Wayne Citizens Volunteered Aid During Severe Cold.

WORK IN JANUARY

Applications to the Associated Charities for the month of January numbered 81 as against 55 for the corresponding month of 1911. Twenty-four were new cases, and all but 9 were residents; 48 were families in which there were children, and 15 families with no children. The applications represented 145 adults and 150 children. Fifteen were found to be not in need or did not receive assistance, 66 having been given aid. Eighteen men were offered work at the men's labor yard, 8 of whom worked, and permits to the work roo mwere issued to 9 women. For the necessitous cases, aid was secured through the Relief Union, trustees, Visiting Nurse League, Young People's society Christian Enteavor Union, and private persons. Transportation was secured in two cases, two were admitted to Hope hospital free bed, two were referred to institutions in other cities and one to the charity organization society in another place. Temporary employment was secured for four.

From the office of the general secretary 53 visits were made on matters pertaining to the work, and 115 telephone and 94 personal calls were received at the office.

With the advent of the extremely cold weather the first of the month, an order was placed by a generous Fort Wayne citizen for $100 worth of coal to be supplied at once through the Associated Charities to needy families, and the superintendent of the Indiana Lighting company also authorized the society to make requisition upon that corporation during the cold snap for supplies of coke where needed. The Retail Coal Dealers' association of Fort Wayne also notified the association that requisitions from the general secretary's office will be honored during the cold weather, and the Y. P. S. C. E. Union arranged to care for very considerable in this line.

The Associated Charities greatly appreciates these generous offers, as in addition to the good accomplished and distress relieved it is an endorsement of and manifestation of confidence in the work of the association.

Moved All Her Belongings.

When Mrs. Schwartz left the East Berry street rooming house she took all of her effects and they were still in her room on Brackenridge street today. She had a number of letters addressed to her as Schwartz and none as Fellebaum and most of them bore Findlay postmarks.

DIDN'T WANT TO KNOW.

Parents Declined to Talk to the Findlay Police.

[Special to The Sentinel.]

Findlay, O., Feb. 10.—When the chief of police here called up Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hoffmeyer, of Van Buren, O., today to tell them about the wounding of their daughter and to make some inquiry about her they said they didn't want to know anything about it and declined to discuss the matter by telephone.

The officers have been unable to locate the three children of Mrs. John Schwartz and the husband has evidently left town as efforts to find him proved unavailing.

So far as the records here show the woman has never had a divorce from Schwartz and none of her acquaintances ever heard that she was married to Fellebaum.

Fellebaum is little known here. He had a brother who took his own life two years ago and since that time the mother has been living in the west.

Just what other relatives the wounded woman has it is difficult to find out. While she was pretty well known among the glove factory employes, where she worked, they knew little of her family connections of her history except that she was married and had three children.

Dr Ogle has resumed the practice of medicine. See card. 2-1-tf.

BLACK LIST OF OVER 1,000 NAMES

Was Kept by Steel Corporation Says Pittsburg Witness.

WILL BE PRODUCED

Washington, Feb. 10.—J. H. Seldes, a Pittsburg newspaper man, today testified before the house committee investigating the United States steel corporation that the corporation maintained a black list of several thousand men discharged because of their connection with labor unions. When pressed for the source of his information Seldes demurred until insistence compelled an answer. Seldes said that his informant might be "slugged" if his name were divulged and that the list was exceedingly valuable. "The man who told me, said the steel corporation would give thousands of dollars for it," he said. He finally said the list was in the possession of H. A. Eagle, city editor of the Pittsburg Leader.

Eagle will be summoned to testify and a subpoena duces tecum was ordered issued for him to produce a copy of the alleged "black list."

Selders told the committee he had investigated advertisements for foreign laborers published in the Pittsburg papers in 1909 and found that they were to secure Syrians, Poles and Roumanians to take the place of American workers in the American tin plate mills.

WILL PRODUCE LIST

"What Else Can I Do" Replies Mr. Eagle to Interrogatory.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 10.—"Yes, I've got a black list the American Sheet and Tin Plate company kept," said H. A. Eagle, city editor of the Pittsburg Leader, today, when asked about the statement brought out before the Stanley investigating committee this afternoon. "The list I've had locked up in my desk for over a year. It was turned over to me, but how does not matter now. It came to me in the general run of working a news story and it was through Selders that I got it.

"The list contains, I should say, over a thousand names, and many of the men on it never knew they were blacklisted."

Asked if he was ready to produce the list, Mr. Eagle said, "What else can I do?"

ROBBED IN THE STREET.

New York, Feb. 10.—In broad day light two highwaymen attacked Irving Beckerman, a bookkeeper on the Bowery, this afternoon, robbed him of $1,000 and leaving him unconscious in the street, made their escape in a taxicab. The police have the number of the car, and every bridge and ferry from Manhattan is being watched for its appearance.

SAYS TAFT SUGGESTED CHARGES BE SUPPRESSED

and his long and honorable service there has perhaps better chances for the nomination than any other Missourian and I shall therefore release all claims I may have on the delegation and request my friends to go in with me in giving Mr. Clark the united support of Missouri in this contest."

Mr. Clark's Statement.

Mr. Clark's statement as received by Gov. Folk follows:

"Especially desirous of bringing the democracy of Missouri together and prevent as far as possible any acrimony in the state, I have after consultation with numerous friends and on due deliberation, determined to agree to and accept the suggestion made by Mr. Bryan to divide the Missouri delegation to the national convention between Gov. Folk and myself; provided, of course, that democrats of this state are in the main for one or the other of us.

"I am especially anxious that there should be harmony and co-operation among the democrats of Missouri. Whether the Joplin convention would be for me or Gov. Folk is a question which is unnecessary and which it would be bootless for me to discuss now. It is sufficient to say that in the interest of party harmony in this state, I have determined to say that I am willing to accept the suggestion made for a division of the state delegation and I hope my friends throughout the state will heartily agree to this suggestion and co-operate with me in carrying it out."

Lon Sanders, campaign manager for Mr. Folk, after the statements were given out said: "This practically means Mr. Folk's withdrawal from the presidential race."

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 10.—"Think it would be suicidal to nominate Harmon or any one else favored by Wall street."

Later a committee on permanent organization was elected as follows: E. J. Brundage, Chicago, chairman; C. A. Nichols, Michigan; Walter Brown, Ohio; Leslie Combs, Kentucky, and E. H. Brindson, Georgia.
